Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 24.—On a moist gridiron with a nearly clear sky overhead, Michigan and Minnesota met with the Big Ten conference championship within Michigan's reach, and an outside chance for Minnesota to win it should Ohio State defeat Illinois.

Rain last night and a freeze left the footing tricky, especially in mid-gridiron but furnished a pair of slippy just inside the side lines where the long grass offered the goal posts a bit of a cushion.

The crowd was estimated at 45,000.

The captains, Kipke and Martineau, engaged in a kicking contest shortly after the game started. Minnesota received the kick-off and made a first down on plunges, but then was stopped. Michigan made no concerted attempt to advance the ball, being satisfied to kick out of danger. Minnesota's early attempts at passing were kicked off to Libberg, who returned 31 yards to Minnesota's 31-yard line. Martineau made four off left-tackle. Libberg added two and Martineau made it first down on his 42-yard line. Marty made three and four on two line plunges, a forward pass was incomplete and Marty punted to Michigan's 10-yard line. Kipke punted in return to Graham who returned 15 yards and was injured so seriously in being tackled that he was forced to leave the game. The score at the end of the first period was Minnesota 0; Michigan 0.

Second Period

In the second period, an exchange of punts and two completed passes gave Michigan a touchdown. The winning pass was made, Vick to Rockwell. Rockwell kicked goal. Score Michigan 7; Minnesota 0.

After another exchange of punts, Kipke and Martineau's great kickers, dropped a goal from his 35-yard line, making the score, Michigan 10; Minnesota 0.

TAX LEVIES IN COUNTY FIXED FOR YEAR '23

Decrease of About $5,000,000 in Total Valuation; Boost in the Mill Levies

VARIOUS RATES SHOWN

County Auditor Completes Fixing of the Tax Levies For the Next Year

Tax levies in Burleigh county for 1923, particularly the township levies, show an increase in the millage rate over the year 1922. However, the valuation is materially decreased this year from last, which offsets to some extent this increase.

The total valuation of the county for taxation purposes in 1923 is $23,619,756, as compared to a valuation in 1922 of $28,226,766, a decrease of almost five million dollars.

For the city of Bismarck the valuation is increased in 1923, however, the valuation being $5,300,055 compared to $5,940,859 in 1922. Under the shifting of tax burden of the last legislature the valuation of farm lands was materially reduced.

The tax rate for the city of Bismarck for 1923 is as follows: School mill tax 18, in 1922, 20.05 mills; school interest and sinking, 3.95; city general fund and interest, and sinking, 12.55, in 1922, 15.53 mills; state and county, 14.53 mills as compared to 13.22 mills last year. Total levy, 55.41 mills as compared to 49.55 mills last year.

The total mill tax by townships, as fixed by the county auditor on the basis of appropriations of the various townships, is for 1922 and 1923 as follows:

The city schools, including both levies for general purposes and interest and sinking, will raise $138,000 this year under the tax levy, as compared to $119,000 in 1922. The city of Bismarck will raise for general purposes, including interest and sinking fund on bonds, $121,900, as compared to $92,500 in 1922, the increase being chiefly for interest on bonds.

The county of Burleigh for state and county purposes, including interest on bonds, will raise $245,105 on the 1923 taxes, according to calculations, as compared to $16,704 in 1922. Of this amount $16,000 is for interest on refunding bonds issued by the county of Burleigh.

The township rates show a big increase chiefly because of the lowering of valuations, according to the county auditor's figures, the amount in dollars raised by the township tax levies being about the same for 1923 as for 1922.

The county levy for road and bridge purposes has been cut more than $21,000 because of the limitation of 2 1/2 mills on the assessed valuation, as provided by the last legislature. Road and bridge work will be curtailed this much in the county next year.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Two terrific bomb explosions in foreign consulates in the downtown district today in vivid scores of persons damaged many houses and threw the southern section of the city into wild excitement. No one was seriously hurt so far as police could learn.

The first explosion occurred at the Spanish consulate about 1 a. m. and the second at the Consulate of Italy Bank an hour later. The Italian consulate is located in the bank building and the second explosion was a number of houses were damaged. The fact that the Italian consulate was located in the building led the police to believe that the same person were responsible for the placing of both bombs. Officials of the Italian consulate said they had no idea why the place was bombed.

Neither the Spanish consul nor the officials of the Italian consulate had any enemies so far as they knew, they said.

after retiring, he told the police, he had concluded that a passer by had left the box on the doorstep temporarily and might return for it. A few minutes after returning to his room, the explosion occurred, tearing out the entire front of the building and wrecking the consul's room on the second floor. Mr. De Motta was badly shaken up.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 24.—On a moist gridiron with a nearly clear sky overhead Michigan and Minnesota met with the Big Ten conference championship within five feet of each other in an outside chance for Minnesota to win it should Ohio State defeat Illinois.

Rain last night and a freeze left the footing tricky, especially in mid-gridiron but furnished a pair of all-eyes just inside the side lines where the long grass offered the foot of Michigan an outside chance for Minnesota to win it should Ohio State defeat Illinois.

The captains, Kipke and Martineau, engaged in a kicking contest shortly after the game started. Minnesota received the kick-off and made a first down on plunges, but then was stopped. Michigan made no concerted attempt to advance the ball, being satisfied to kick out of danger. Minnesota's early attempts at passing were ineffectual.

HE'S POPULAR

When Hiram Johnson reached Washington the other day he found this delegation waiting to extend him a joyful reception. His real news now and these boys of the press are playing him with questions about his recently announced candidacy for the Republican nomination for president.

to McKee, netted eight yards and the Navy then made its first down in mid-field. The Middies punted to the Army 19-yard line. Wood, standing on his own goal line, kicked to mid-field. The Navy ran to the 43-yard line but was forced to kick. Cullen's kick was partly blocked and then fumbled and Matthews recovered for the Navy on the Army 30-yard line as the quarter ended. The Navy was penalized for holding and the ball went to mid-field in the second quarter.

Annapolis punted to the Army's four-yard line where Smythe slipped in the mud and fell on his face. In the shadow of the goal posts the Army tried three fine plays and then punted to the Navy's 47-yard line.

YALE SCORES FIRST BLOOD OVER HARVARD

Makes First Touchdown in Crimson Stadium Since 1907—Early in Game

Final Score: Yale 13; Harvard 0.

Harvard Stadium, Nov. 24.—The Bulldog dashed into the ring soaked with rain and intent upon a muddy gridiron that was about a lake. Fifty thousand alumni and others were present.

Harvard kicked off to Richeson on Yale's 10-yard line and he ran the ball back 15 yards. Yale punted on the first play to Harvard's 25-yard line where Lee fumbled and Miller of Yale fell on the ball. Yale attempted a forward pass but it was grounded and on the next play Neale circled Harvard's left end to the Crimson 13-yard line. The Blues' next two plays resulted in a seven yard loss in the mud. Both teams continued a punting duel after short tries through the line. The ball often fell flat in the mud. The first period ended without scores, with the ball in Yale's possession on its own 16-yard line.

Yale made a touchdown early in the second period. It was the first time the Blue has crossed the goal line in Harvard's stadium for a touchdown since 1917. The score came when Luman, Yale right-end, recovered a fumble by Hammond, and raced for a touchdown.

Mallory kicked goal. Score Yale 7; Harvard 0.

Yale could not gain and a punting duel was resumed. The play was mostly in Yale's territory. Time was frequently taken out so the players could rub the mud from their faces.

RESCUES HIS EMPLOYER.

Hazen, N. D., Nov. 24.—Gunnold S. Hazen, proprietor of a well drilling outfit, owes his life to William Rand, a member of his crew, who went down a 60-foot well with only a saturated handkerchief over his mouth for protection and rescued the unconscious form of Hazen who had been overcome by gas.

AGED MAN IS MURDERED IN HIS OWN HOME

Unknown Intruder Enters Minneapolis Dwelling and Slaughters Duane Chapel

WIFE IS HELPLESS

Minneapolis, Nov. 24.—Hennepin county authorities today are looking for the masked intruder who strode into the home of Duane Chapel, 64, at Maple Plain and clubbed the aged man to death before the eyes of his horrified wife.

Chapel, killed while taking a nap on his couch, had no chance to defend himself and his invalid wife was helpless to aid him. For nearly three hours the woman remained in the house with the body, a nervous wreck, unable to leave her chair. The alarm was given by Guy Chapel, 24, when he returned from work.

Questioning was resumed today of Mrs. Chapel and Guy, both of whom were brought here last night. "A big man with a club came in from the front door," the woman said. She said the man entered in silence, did his work silently and departed without having uttered a word.

Last night was the second murder in the Chapel family in a little more than four years. Nellie Chapel, 15 years old, daughter of the man killed last night was stabbed to death Feb. 24, 1919 by Wellington Michaels, a crippled half-brother of Duane Chapel. Michaels is now an inmate of the state asylum for the criminally insane at St. Peter.

ASK U. S. TAKE RAILROADS

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 24.—Public ownership of transportation system, repeal or "very substantial amendment" of the Esch-Cummins act, "reasonable" reduction of freight rates on farm products, separation of intermediate credit banks from both the federal farm loan system and the federal reserve bank and the privilege of issuing legal tender notes against warehouse receipts and other farm paper showing ownership of staple farm commodities are among measures advocated in the legislative program adopted at the closing session yesterday of the National Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union's annual meeting here.

Other Resolutions urged an increase of 50 cents a bushel in the tariff on wheat as well as repeal of the wheat schedule "which permits our mills to import, manufacture and re-export great quantities of Canadian wheat in direct competition with American producers."

President Charles F. Barrett of Union City, Ga. was re-elected for the 19th consecutive term.

MANY BIDDERS MAKE OFFERS ON N. D. BONDS

Premium Offered on 5 Per Cent Bonds For First Time in Many Months

BIDS ARE CONSIDERED

Many Combinations Are Taken Into Consideration by Industrial Commission

The Industrial Commission this afternoon accepted the bid of R. M. Grant and Company, New York, for $2,400,000 of real estate series bonds.

Twenty financial corporations and individuals, in ten distinct groups, today offered the Industrial Commission the best price made for North Dakota state bonds in the last year. For the first time in many months bids of a premium on 5 per cent bonds of the real estate series, on which farm loans are made, were presented.

Because of the great number of bids and various combinations, the Industrial Commission adjourned at noon today after reading the bids, to consider them again during the day.

R. N. Grant and Company of Chicago and New York offered a premium of $4,340 on $1,400,000 of real estate bonds bearing 5 percent interest, and offered $6,100 premium on an optional bid on $1,000,000 additional. The Industrial Commission had offered $2,400,000 of bonds for sale.

P. C. Remington, president of the City National Bank of Bismarck, offered a premium of $20,088 on $2,400,000 of 5 1/4 percent real estate bonds. Other bids included: New York Life Insurance Company, $1,000,000 real estate bonds, 5 1/4 percent on basis of 102.57; Farnson, Son and Company, New York, entire issue, 5 1/4 percent on basis of 100.313; Seip, Prindle and Company, Chicago, $1,000 premium on $1,400,000 real estate bonds; group of Chicago and New York bond houses headed by Brown Brothers, New York, par and premium of $18,720 on issue; Spitzer, Rorick and Company, Toledo, total premium of $19,200, basis 100.80; Northern Trust Company, Fargo, entire issue, $19,440 premium, basis 100.8137; seven Twin City houses headed by Lane, Piper and Jaffray, premium of $49,200 on entire issue, basis 102.50 on 5 1/4 percent bonds.

Divide County Wheat Producer

Crosby, N. D., Nov. 24.—Divide county, with the exception of five Red River Valley counties, leads the state in average production of wheat per acre over the twelve-year period from 1911 to 1922 inclusive, the average for this county being 12.04 bushels per acre for that period, according to figures secured by County Agent R. L. Aney from federal crop statistics.

Red River valley counties standing above Divide county for the same period and their averages are Pembina, 15.05; Walsh, 13.26; Grand Forks, 12.98; Cass, 12.74; and Traill, 12.32.

Highest county-wide yields for Divide were obtained in 1912 and 1915, when the wheat crop averaged 20.5 and 21 bushels per acre respectively.

Hundred Seats Available For Martin Concert

Bismarck music lovers have a rare opportunity to hear an artist of the first rank at the Auditorium this evening. There are from 100 to 150 seats still available for the Ricardo Martin recital which is being given under the auspices of the Association of Commerce. Many stores will close so their employees can be given an opportunity to hear the famous tenor.

These tickets can be had at the Auditorium box office. The ovation given the singer last evening is one of the finest testimonials ever accorded a musical event in the Capital City.

TAX LEVIES IN COUNTY FIXED FOR YEAR '23

Decrease of About $5,000,000 in Total Valuation; Boost in the Mill Levies

VARIOUS RATES SHOWN

County Auditor Completes Fixing of the Tax Levies For the Next Year

Tax levies in Burleigh county for 1923, particularly the township levies, show an increase in the millage rate over the year 1922. However, the valuation is materially decreased this year from last, which offsets to some extent this increase.

The total valuation of the county for taxation purposes in 1923 is $23,619,756, as compared to a valuation in 1922 of $28,228,766, a decrease of almost five million dollars.

For the city of Bismarck the valuation is increased in 1923, however, the valuation being $6,300,056 as compared to $5,940,629 in 1922. Under the shifting of tax burden of the last legislature the valuation of farm lands was materially reduced.

The tax rate for the city of Bismarck for 1923 is as follows: School mill tax 18, in 1922, 20.05 mills; school interest and sinking, 3.93; city general fund and interest and sinking, 18.35, in 1922, 15.58 mills; state and county, 14.53 mills as compared to 11.22 mills last year. Total levy, 55.81 mills as compared to 46.85 mills last year.

The total mill tax by townships, as fixed by the county auditor on the basis of appropriations of the various boards, is for 1922 and 1923 as follows:

The city schools, including both levies for general purposes and interest and sinking, will raise $138,000 this year under the tax levy, as compared to $119,000 in 1922. The city of Bismarck will raise for general purposes, including interest and sinking fund on bonds, $121,900, as compared to $92,500 in 1922, the increase being chiefly for interest on bonds.

The county of Burleigh for state and county purposes, including interest on bonds, will raise $343,195 on the 1923 taxes, according to calculations, as compared to $316,704 in 1922. Of this amount $16,000 is for interest on refunding bonds issued by the county of Burleigh.

The township rates show a big increase chiefly because of the lowering of valuations, according to the county auditor's figures, the amount in dollars raised by the township tax levies being about the same for 1923 as for 1922.

BOMB EXPLOSIONS SHAKE FOREIGN CONSULATES IN PHILADELPHIA; ONE BUILDING IS COMPLETELY WRECKED

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Two terrific bomb explosions in foreign consulates in the downtown district today injured scores of persons, damaged many houses, and threw the southern section of the city into wild excitement. No one was seriously hurt so far as a police could learn.

The first explosion occurred at the Spanish consulate about 1 a. m. and the second at the Sons of Italy Bank an hour later. The Italian consulate is located in the bank building and the bomb was placed on the doorstep leading to the consulate office. Both blasts shattered window panes and shook houses in a wide radius. The force of the explosion in the Spanish consulate was so great that many persons were hurled from their beds.

The bomb concealed in a wooden box was found on a door step by Emilio De Motta, the consul, when he returned from the theater. He placed it inside the hall way but after retiring, he told the police, he had concluded that a passer by had left the box on the doorstep temporarily and might return for it. Without a thought of the deadly bomb concealed within he got out of bed and replaced the box on the doorstep. A few minutes after returning to his room, the consul was awakened, tearing out the entire front of the building and wrecking the consul's room on the second floor. Mr. De Motta was badly shaken up.

The Sons of Italy bank building was wrecked by the second explosion and a number of houses were damaged. The fact that the Italian consulate was located in the building led the police to believe that the same persons were responsible for the placing of both bombs. Officials of the Italian consulate said they had no idea why the place was bombed.

Neither the Spanish consul nor the officials of the Italian consulate had any enemies so far as they knew, they said.

HOTEL GUESTS SCURRY WHEN POLICE FIRE

Madman in Hotel Sherman in Chicago Fires at Officers Through a Door

TEAR BOMBS SUCCEEDED

Drive Madman to Window and Police Advance and Capture Him

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Guests of the Hotel Sherman scurried for cover last night while 30 police and detectives with tear bombs and revolvers assaulted a room on the fourth floor in which Roy Hendrickson of Shawnee, Oklahoma, had barricaded himself. Hendrickson, who says he was a member of former Governor Walton's secret service, became suddenly deranged and fired several shots at the officers before the tear bombs thrown through the transom forced him to a window. The officers broke through the door and took him to a hospital.

Several hours before the shooting Hendrickson called a Chicago newspaper and asked that a reporter be sent to his room to get a story about a police captain robbing him. Hendrickson locked the door and told the reporter he would remain there over night. The reporter demurred and later by a ruse eluded Hendrickson and called the police. With three sergeants and a house detective he went to Hendrickson's room. The officers' demand for admittance was answered by bullets through the door. A concerted attack was made when reserve officers arrived. A bullet-proof shield of steel behind which two officers were sheltered as they moved it before them. The door was burst open the officers followed the shield into the room and overpowered Hendrickson.

Hotel guests thought the place had been raided by police. With tears inspired by the bombs streaming from their eyes they made frantic efforts to hide valuables until hotel officials and officers restored calm.

HIGH QUALITY IS THEIR AIM

Crosby, N. D., Nov. 24.—Divide county farmers are out to establish a reputation for high-quality seed production, according to County Agent R. L. Aney, who points out that of the ten farmers on the emergency list of the North Dakota Pure Seed Laboratory as sources of good marquis seed wheat, nine are residents of Divide county.

The fields were inspected by the county agent and W. G. Cooney, field inspector from the North Dakota Agricultural college, this summer, and the seed produced is eligible for state certification providing laboratory tests are satisfactory.

BRITISH ARE ALARMED OVER LATEST TURN

Fall of Stresemann Cabinet Is Regarded Gravely by London Newspapers

STRESEMANN ANGRY

Condemns German Parliamentary System, Also Strikes at German Enemies

London, Nov. 24.—President Ebert has invited Herr Von Kautzsch, member of the German Peoples Party in the Reichstag, to form a new German cabinet, says a news agency dispatch from Berlin this afternoon. It is anticipated that he will accept the message today.

London, Nov. 24.—The downfall of the Stresemann government is viewed here as an event of the utmost significance, possibly involving developments destined to have a deep and lasting effect on all Europe. The fact that some of the morning newspapers in British election campaign have from first displayed their Berlin dispatches on the Reichstag's rejection of the chancellor and the situation in Germany generally indicates that the crisis is regarded as serious.

"The condition of Germany today is infinitely worse than it has been at any moment since Germany became an empire," The Times says. "Germany is breaking up. This fact must be realized now as the most important event in contemporary Europe with the great tribulations of Russia in the background."

Berlin dispatches to the London newspapers agree that it is impossible to foresee what administration is to follow, but some of the correspondents tell the growth of militarist nationalism and hint at sensational developments from that source.

Dr. Stresemann in his talk to German newspaper men commented bitterly on the German parliamentary system and said that the next government would be faced with a serious task in determining its foreign policy. He also referred with considerable feeling to the recent allied note concerning the former crown prince, the tone of which he regarded as a new blow to the cheek of every German. It is such notes, he added, that destroyed democracy in Germany and created nationalism.

EBERT CAUSE UNCERTAIN

Berlin, Nov. 23.—While awaiting word from President Ebert as to his plans for the government, the ministry, political leaders this morning were discussing the several possibilities that the situation contains. The nature of the new government remained a mystery over night and observers were wondering whether the President would try another parliamentary ministry or whether he would rely on a restricted directorate.

The socialists last night let it be known that they would be "benevolently neutral" to a coalition representing the Clericals, the Democrats, and the German Peoples Party but they made it plain that they would not approve the inclusion of non-partisan experts in such a ministry.

FRENCH SATISFIED

Paris, Nov. 24.—Friends of Premier Poincaré rejoiced at the latest developments in German foreign relations, feeling that these more than compensate for what he may have sacrificed in the note sent to Germany by the ambassadors' council.

HUSBAND, WIFE NEAR DEATH

Yankton, S. D., Nov. 24.—Carl Howe electrical light plant manager at Utica, S. D., and his wife were perhaps fatally burned early this morning in a fire starting from an exploding kerosene can. They were brought to the Yankton hospital, both badly burned.

Howe arose early to go hunting and started a fire and when it failed to burn brightly he poured kerosene on it from a three-gallon can which exploded. He ran a block to the home of his father-in-law to get help for his wife although he was badly burned. He left foot prints of blood.

DOWNTURN IN WHEAT MART

Initial Gains Ascribed Simply To Coverings

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Commission house selling led to a downturn in wheat today after a little advance at the opening. The initial gains were ascribed to covering by shorts. Bears contended, however, that rallies were due chiefly to pit conditions and would as a consequence be transient. The opening which varied from unchanged to one-fourth cents higher with December $1.037-8 to $1.04 and May $1.087-8 to $1.091-4 was followed by a moderate general decline.

Subsequently with indications of world shipments for the week being large, selling on the part of holders grew in volume and the market lacked support. Prices closed heavy at 3-8 to 1-1-8 cents net decline, December $1.027-8 to $1.02 and May $1.081-4 to $1.088-8.

MR. MARTIN IS PLEASED TO BIG AUDIENCE

Audience Which Fills Auditorium Enjoys Concert of Great Tenor

APPLAUSE IS WARM

Audience, Perhaps Unaccustomed to Operatic Singing, Appreciative to End

Ricardo Martin, the great American tenor, proved his rights to the laurels of the public last night at the Auditorium before an audience that filled all available seats and occupied a part of the stage. Many were turned away at the door because of lack of seating capacity. Assisting the artist in his success last evening was Miss Bertha Hagen of Fargo, manager and director of the Dakota Conservatory of Music, who played his accompaniments on the piano.

Ricardo Martin's winning of his huge audience was gradual but by the close of the concert he had the house demanding encores repeatedly. With the conclusion of his first number, "The Valkyrie" by Wagner, no doubt, was left in the mind of his auditors that they were listening to the powerful, clear and full voiced voice of a great artist but with the introduction of the group of French love songs they were convinced that he could interpret a sprightly love song with the same feeling and artistic finish which he gave to an operatic selection of the Wagnerian type. And by the time he reached his Italian selections into which he threw all his magnetic personality and his dramatic skill the vast crowd in which appeared a number of Bismarck musicians, he had completely won the hearts of his hearers.

Much of the charm of the personality of the singer was shown in his delightful introductions and explanations of some of his foreign selections. His simplicity was very pleasing. Aiding and enhancing the beauty of the singing of Mr. Martin were the intelligent and artistic piano accompaniments of Miss Hagen who showed herself to be a skilled musician.

The program was varied including a selection from German opera, a group of French love songs, a similar group of Italian love songs, some English songs, and selections from Italian opera. His many encores covered a variety of musical numbers ranging from "My Old Kentucky Home" to popular operatic selections. "The Sweetest Flower" was given as an encore to his first selection, and "Si Mes Vers Avient Des Ailes," by Hahn at the close of the group of charming French selections.

Love Songs Win. In his third group, the Italian love songs, "Vieni Giocare," by Blechmann, was undoubtedly one of the most beautiful of the entire evening's program as was "Sea Fever" by John Ireland, and "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak. Probably the much of their charm lay in the fact that they gave the singer the opportunity to show his special skill in taking high tones.

Ricardo Martin struck his stride and kept his audience with him clapping wildly for more encores at the conclusion of each selection. He showed himself as thoroughly at home in the Italian music, and his love for the beautiful lyric selections was shown by his sympathetic treatment of them. "My Old Kentucky Home," "Believe Me If All These Endearing Young Charms" were given as encores.

The English songs were filled with high notes and resonant chords into which the singer put the full force of his powerful and yet melodiously beautiful voice. "The Year at the Spring" by Beach and "La donna e mobile," by Donizetti, were given as encores. The popular Italian number which appeared to be a favorite with everybody brought an uproar of applause and enthusiastic greetings.

His enunciation in Italian and French was excellent.

Displays Great Range. "Arioso" from "Pagliacci," by Leoncavallo, as a concluding number gave Mr. Martin a final chance to show his wonderful powers to hold sustained and high notes and to display his voice with its full advantage.

A selection from Giordano's opera "Sedano" was given as a final encore. There is a complete change for this evening's program and with from 100 to 200 seats available for tonight's concert another packed house should greet this artist.

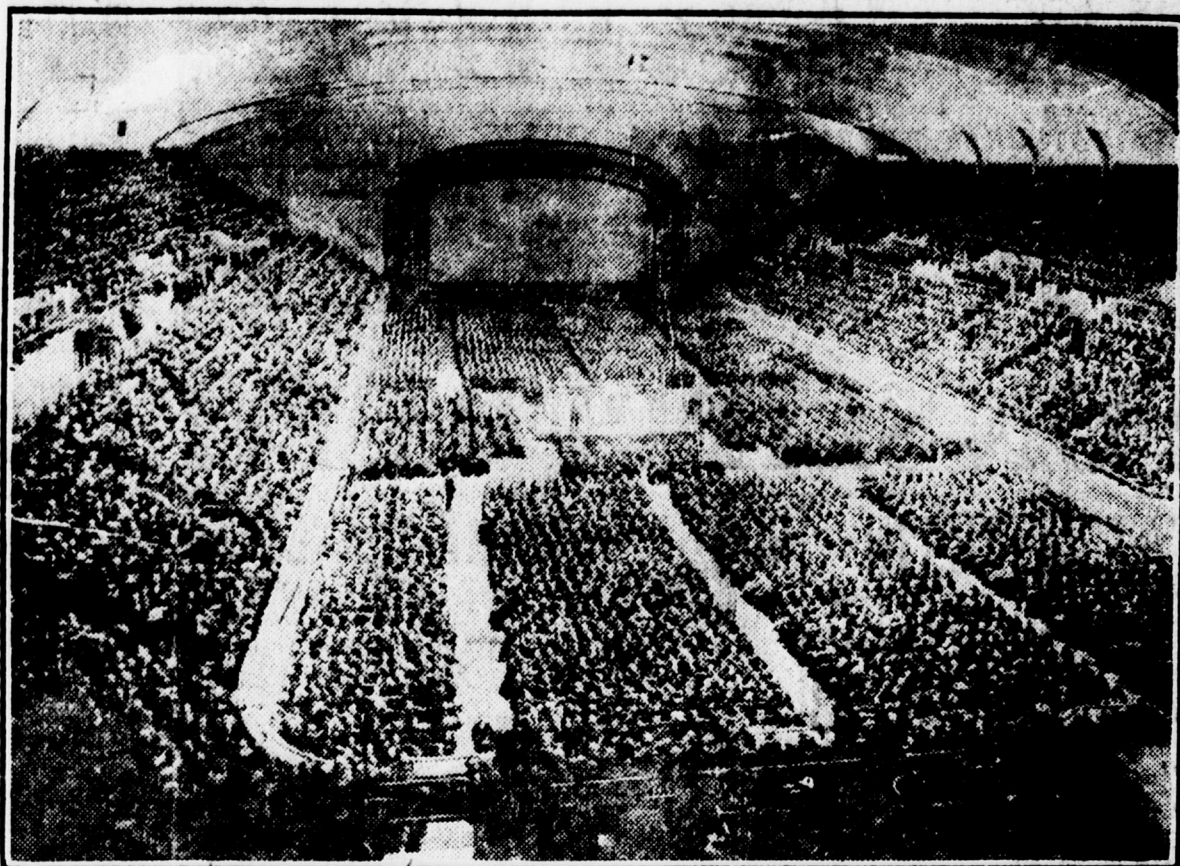

Count Illya Tolstoy was among the auditors who heard Ricardo Martin sing last evening.

Sheep Double In Nelson Co.

Lakota, N. D., Nov. 24.—Number of sheep has doubled in Nelson county during the past month, a total of 4,705 breeding ewes, mostly four and five-year-olds, being shipped in at a cost ranging from $8 to $9 per head. At a meeting held by County Agent Th. T. Kristiansen last winter at Petersburg, a number of farmers declared they were anxious to get back into the sheep business, or to increase their present flocks, and a short time ago Peter E. Johnson of Petersburg was selected to go to Montana, where he purchased 2,100 head for the farmers of that locality.

The county agent and A. S. Eassey of Maple, visited the Adams farm on the reservation in Benson county, where 750 head of breeding ewes were purchased at an average cost of $9 and were distributed among the farmers of Pekin, Mapes

ARMY PLANES TO ENCIRCLE GLOBE ON TRIP

Will Hop off Early in the Summer of 1924 at Washington and Head West

Dayton, O., Nov. 24.—Some time in the early summer of 1924, four or possibly six army airplanes will hop off from Bolling Field, Washington, and turn their noses to the west. Before their pilots again glimpse the nation's capital, they will have traveled 30,000 miles, crossed two oceans, and almost a score of countries and encircled the globe in the air for the first time in the world's history.

Such is the picture in the minds of officials at McCook Field here, who, under the direction of Army Air Service headquarters at Washington, are making plans for the first "round the world aerial cruise." Tentatively, a route has been laid out and two air officers are going over it with the idea of making recommendations for necessary changes and completing other preparations. Lieut. C. E. Crumrine, of the local field, now is in Iceland heading eastward, while an officer of the Philippines aerial forces is working in the opposite direction. They will meet in Europe and after comparing data, return to their home stations.

No Regular Supplies. The flight, designed primarily to demonstrate the ability of planes to operate away from their regular supply bases during war times, will be made in comparatively short jumps. The distance between most of the stations will be 500 miles or less, the longest hop being approximately 850 miles. As laid out at present, the route to be taken would not necessitate any sustained flight over open water. After crossing the country from the capital to Seattle, Washington, the squadron would head northward through Canada and after touching at Wrangell, Alaska, would hop to the Aleutian Islands and then to the Japanese archipelago where several stops would be made. The mainland of Asia would be reached at Shanghai, China.

For the trip across the Atlantic, alternate routes are available. One itinerary calls for hops from Aberdeen, Scotland, to Faroe Island, to Iceland, to Greenland and to the mainland of North America at Frederiksdal-Hamilton, Inlet Canada. The other provides for the European take-off at Dunmore Head, Ireland, and the more direct course to Newfoundland and thence to Quebec.

MYSTERY MAKES A NEW GRIFFITH FILM

"One Exciting Night" Contains About All Ingredients, Plus a Storm Scene

For his latest motion picture sensation, "One Exciting Night," which has been announced as the feature attraction for next Monday and Tuesday at the Palace Theatre, Mandan, D. W. Griffith, master-maker of photoplays, has taken for his cue the increasing popularity of the last two or three years of the stage melodrama and has produced a mystery picture par excellence.

In this newest of Griffith films, a United Artists Corporation release, the great director gives five of the six elements that go to make up effective mystery—secreted treasure, personal disappearance, puzzling homicide, hidden identity, and the return of the avenging spirit. And with it all he gives the spectator an altogether marvellous assortment in the way of actual entertainment. There is as sweet and dainty a love story as ever was filmed; there is mystery galore—mystery till the audience sits breathless—and then comes relief from the suspense in the form of the most delightful and laughter-provoking comedy from Romeo Washington, a wonderful, black-face character who finds himself torn between love of a dusky maid and fear of the peering eyes and stealthy figures that creep in and out are seen everywhere. In this picture Mr. Griffith has departed entirely from the heavy and spectacular and gone in purely for audience entertainment in the way of love, laughter, mystery, thrills and thrills. There are no great mob scenes, no historical motif to be pictured, no mass of costumes. But there is entertainment—a full two hours of it.

THREE STATES ASKED TO ACT ON COAL FIGHT

Governor Nestos to Meet Preus and McMaster in Near Future on Subject

FIGHT A COMMON ONE

The governors of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota will meet in the very near future to determine by what method the three state governments can best assist in the fight against the increase in North Dakota coal rates. Governor R. A. Nestos announced today when making known that fact that he had sent letters to Governor Preus of Minnesota and McMaster of South Dakota requesting that they meet with him, possibly in Fargo, at a date convenient to them. United opposition to the proposed increase in freight rates on North Dakota coal, which will result in a vast increase in the coal bill of the Northwest, will be the only subject discussed at the conference of the three governors unless Governors Preus and McMaster have some matters they wish to bring up, Governor Nestos declared.

"It is apparent," Governor Nestos stated today "that the three state governments must unite in protecting the interests of coal users. There seems every indication that the new lignite tariff was inspired by eastern coal interests for it appears evident that some drastic action must be taken to clear the docks at the head of the lakes of the large surplus of coal now on hand. Lignite has been making substantial inroads into the area heretofore served almost exclusively by the dock interests and the demand for lignite in Minnesota this fall indicates a record production for North Dakota mines. The eastern coal interests are finding it hard to compete with lignite in the west where a year's trial of this fuel has demonstrated its heat value, cleanliness and general utility for domestic and industrial purposes.

Must Co-operate. "The development of the North Dakota coal fields has resulted in other industrial development made possible by cheap fuel. Indications point to further development of this nature which would soon result in less dependency on agriculture. It is with this thought in mind that many of our civic organizations are demanding action by the state and I believe the state governments of adjoining states will co-operate. As long as lignite is available as a satisfactory and economical alternative for both bituminous and anthracite, the eastern coal interests cannot extract an exorbitant price but must meet this competition from North Dakota and keep their price as fair figure. The new rates, as sought by the railroads, would drive lignite out of the field, practically all our mines would have to close and the consumer would again be subject to domination by eastern coal interests. Such a condition should not be permitted if the state governments of Minnesota, South Dakota and North Dakota can prevent it.

"The explanation is offered by the railroads of the Northwest that this new lignite tariff results from the assurance of instructions from connecting lines to cancel discriminatory rates on lignite. We may find on complete investigation, in view of the large surplus of coal at the docks which must be moved to protect eastern coal interests, that there is collusion between the soft coal operators and railroads carrying coal over the long haul. If this be true, it may be that the federal government would be called into the matter for such collusion to wipe out a competitive industry is certainly in violation of the federal anti-trust act.

Appeals to Railroads. "I have already appealed to the railroads serving and served by North Dakota to withdraw this new tariff. It seems to me that the Northwest roads would do everything possible to speed the development of the territory through which they run, rather than to retard it. It seems certain that no thought at all has been given to the financial condition of the farmers and those dependent upon agriculture in the northwest when such a step is taken which will unquestionably add millions to the fuel bills of the people of these three states who are already staggering under heavy burdens. I hope the railroads can be made to see the viewpoint of the people of the Northwest and will withdraw the tariff before causing us the heavy expense of fighting it. But if they do not, we will fight this new tariff to the last ditch. The interests of the coal consumers of the Northwest will be protected."

ASKS PROBE FOR VIOLATION OF U. S. LAWS

The Northwest's fight against huge increases in lignite coal rates which it is declared would throttle North Dakota's growing industry permit operators to boost the price of eastern coal in the Northwest, took a new turn last night when Governor R. A. Nestos announced he had asked the attorney general to make an investigation to determine if the criminal provisions of the federal Sherman anti-trust act were being violated.

"I have asked the attorney general to make a thorough investigation of the forces behind the demand for an increase in lignite coal freight rates, to determine whether eastern railroads, operators and lake dock companies are in a conspiracy to increase lignite freight rates to a point where the industry will be destroyed," the governor said, "and further to determine whether there is evidence which may be placed before a federal grand jury for prosecution."

Repeated charges have been made that Northwestern railroads have been forced to demand an increase in lignite rates, by eastern "connecting" railroads, lake dock companies and operators. Governor Nestos said he had received many complaints of this nature and not desiring to act without good cause had requested the investigation be made.

Sunflower Seeds Valuable Crop in Western States

Washington, Nov. 24.—Sunflower seeds, 14,000,000 pounds of them, worth almost three-quarters of a million dollars. That is this year's crop of the three important producing states, Missouri, Illinois and California, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The yield this year is about 4,000,000 pounds more than last year. From four to six million pounds are imported annually. Principally from Holland, Argentina and Russia. "The poor man's peanuts" are what sunflower seeds are called in some sections. In New York City many Russians buy and roast them to eat. They are used principally, though, in poultry feed mixtures and for parrot feed.

Kansas, the "Sunflower State," produces practically no sunflower seeds for commercial use but in the three principal producing States they are considered a profitable crop as about 600 pounds per acre can be produced and sold for around $4 per 100 pounds. Phone 453 for the Famous Wilton Screened Lump Lignite Coal at $4.75 per ton delivered. Washburn Lignite Coal Co.

Hot Weather Forms Ice in Coal Mine

During the summer, ice is mined from a coal pit located in an eastern state. Cold air seeping through earth fissures in winter cools the rock to a temperature far below freezing, but no ice forms because the atmosphere is too dry. At its depth the heat of summer cannot reach the vault. During warm months, the shaft becomes moist, and when coal was being dug there recently, it is said, the miners had to remove three or four carloads of ice every morning before they were able to get to their posts. As a result, the working was abandoned as a source of fuel, leaving it entirely free for use as a natural refrigerator.

Hunters Snowshoes Over Mud to Stalk Sea Game

Skis and snowshoes are used by fishermen and hunters on the islands of the North Sea to enable them to walk over the wet and slippery mud that covers the ground most of the year. With these it is possible to travel miles over soggy ground, inhabited by sea-dogs and water fowls, much of which otherwise would be impassable. First the natives strapped big wood boards to their feet, but later it was found that the footgear used to traverse the snowdrifts was more efficient.

(It is a difficult matter to catch a moth with the hands as it flies through the air. However, if the hands are moistened, the moth can easily be caught, as the nearness of a wet surface seems to have a paralyzing effect.

Artist in Diving Suit Paints Sea's Depths

Fishlike birds, and castles of coral, have been painted by an artist who, with weighted palette and a diver's helmet, has walked through the tideless lagoons of the South Seas amid cliffs of seaweed. On the canvas, forests rise sheer, mountains seem to jut a vast distance and, in one scene, the sky stretches behind a great peak, a horizon line which is, in fact, a beach cutting across the watery heavens. The painter's work under water is done on calfskin. Fish swim about the artist while he is at work to catch the bits of detached paint. Some of these sea denizens are dangerous, among them being the tiger shark, the octopus, and the ray, giant cousin of the stingray. He can sting, but his weapon is his weight—a ton and a half.

Mistletoe Is Pest in South. Festive Twig Elsewhere

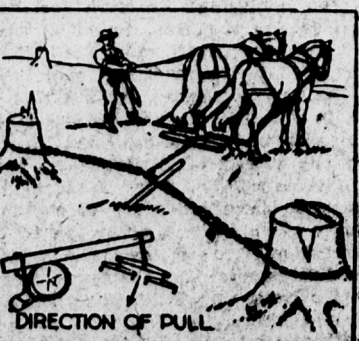

While mistletoe generally is favored as a yuletide decoration, it is regarded as a pest in the Southwest, and for the past 12 years scientists have been studying a way to exterminate it. Government experts call the green sprig and its white berries, an "infectious and destructive disease," because it finally kills the tree.

How to Keep Tools Clean and Bright

To keep tools clean and bright rub a little mercurial ointment over them, which will form a moisture-resisting coating. Mercurial ointment is also known as blue butter. It is somewhat poisonous, so should be handled carefully. Another good mixture to keep tools from rusting is made by taking six parts of lard and one part of resin. Heat these together slowly until the resin is melted. The mixture should be heated in the open air in case of fire, and benzine added in about the proportion of one pint of benzine to half a pound of the mixture. When cool, the mixture can be rubbed lightly over the bright-steel articles. Tools thus treated will resist the corrosive action even of salt water.

Effective Method of Pulling Tree Stumps

In pulling stumps a team and one or two long chains will do the work effectively if arranged correctly. The greater the distance the stumps are apart, the easier they can be pulled. When two stumps are situated close together, loop the chain around each stump and hook it. Twist it by means of a lever to get it as tight as possible, and hook the team on as shown. In case there is no other stump to hitch to, dig down so as to expose the main root, providing a loop large enough for a 10-in. pole. This pole should be about 20 ft. long, and the team is hitched at one end as indicated in the left-hand detail.

TEACHERS BODY TO MAKE STUDY OF FINANCES

Committee Named to Draw up Report for Presentation to Executive Committee

CONVENTION ENDS

Resolution Adopted Asking Congress to Prohibit Tax-Exempt Securities

Following discussion by four speakers of the financial problems of education in North Dakota, at the general session of the North Dakota Education association here yesterday afternoon, the executive committee of the body took steps to make a complete study of the problems through a special committee to be named to report during the winter. The four speakers of the afternoon—J. G. Gunderson, president of the state taxpayers association, President Thomas F. Kane of the University of North Dakota, President C. C. Swain of the Mayville Normal and Harold Wakefield of Neche—were named as the committee to formulate a report.

A recommendation also was placed before the executive committee of the association by a group of educators meeting informally with Dean Joseph Kennedy of the University of North Dakota presiding, that steps be taken to initiate by popular vote a constitutional amendment providing that county school superintendents and the state superintendent of public instruction shall be appointed instead of elected. The group proposed that necessary accompanying action to provide for a real county unit of education be left to future legislatures. The new executive committee of the association, with L. A. White of Minot, elected president of the association presiding, met last night and decided to meet again during the winter to fully consider this recommendation.

McCurdy Re-elected
The committee re-elected M. E. McCurdy of Washburn secretary of the association for one year.

Members of the new executive committee which met here yesterday afternoon were: Superintendent L. A. White of Minot, elected president of the association; Miss Minnie J. Nielson, state superintendent, member ex-officio; M. E. McCurdy, secretary, and representatives of districts elected in previous district conventions—H. E. Polk of Williston, J. C. Gould of Oakes, Dean Kennedy of the University of North Dakota, C. E. Scott of Dickinson, President W. C. Stebbins, who presided at the convention, expressed himself as well pleased with the results.

"The general program was well attended, and the convention has been splendidly taken care of by the organization and people of Bismarck," he said. "We had a good closing meeting, and I was particularly pleased over this."

The President had opposed the playing of the football game here yesterday afternoon and asked the teachers to attend the general session. It was estimated that more than half the teachers were in the Auditorium for the session.

Against Tax Exemption
A resolution was adopted last night during the intermission at the Riccardo Martin concert memorializing Congress to prohibit the issuance of tax-exempt securities. The resolution follows:

"Believing that the exemption of any of our people from their just burden of their share in the support of our government is unjust and dangerous to the welfare, development and security of our country

"We, the members of the North Dakota Education Association in annual session assembled, do hereby urge your honorable body to speedily submit the constitutional amendment now before you eliminating the further issuance of tax exempt securities, to the different legislative assemblies of our state, for their consideration and passage."

The attendance at the convention reached almost 1,500. New permanent decorations secured through the efforts of C. A. Hassell and Robert Webb were on the streets and won favorable comment. The decorations will be placed in the care of the Association of Commerce for future conventions.

The ladies in charge of the Association of Commerce visitor-placing work again today expressed greatest satisfaction over the manner in which the women of the city cooperated. There were more rooms than needed, which indicates the ability of the city to handle the largest of state conventions.

CROWDS SWARM INTO MOSCOW

Moscow, Nov. 24.—All of the compactness of living like sardines in a can, together with about the same amount of privacy as if one were living in a goldfish bowl, is enjoyed by the majority of Moscow's inhabitants. There are more than 2,000,000 of them, living in a city built for less than a million, and only the very prosperous newly rich and a few lucky foreigners who have fat expatriate accounts have anything like spacious quarters.

Housing conditions are somewhat better than last year, because some buildings have been repaired, but for every free room there are hundreds of applicants, ready to pay large fees merely for the privilege of moving in. Generally speaking, the legal amount of space to which any individual is entitled equals that taken up in an American house by a small bathroom or a large clothes closet. In houses which have been returned to private owners, or which have been exempted from the space regulations by agreement with individuals who undertake to repair them, it is sometimes possible to obtain several rooms. But Moscow is money mad, and has been for two years, and the premiums charged merely for obtaining rooms are sometimes fantastic. For example, the writer was asked $500 cash, plus $75 rental, for one small unfurnished room with no convenience whatsoever.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT SHOWS WEAKNESS

Tendency Is Downward on Chicago Mart Early Today

Chicago, Nov. 24.—With lower quotations at Liverpool and with selling here on the part of a house with corn connections, wheat showed a downward tendency today in early dealings. Washington reports of opposition to new credit schemes of financing exports of American products to Germany counted also as a bearish factor. On the decline, however, buying increased and the market soon steadied. Opening prices which varied from unchanged to 3-8 cents lower, December, $1.02 3-4 to $1.02 7-8 and May, $1.08 to $1.08 1-8, were followed by a moderate general setback and then a reaction.

In the latter transactions the market kept within narrow limits. The close was unsettled at 5-8 cents net decline to 1-8 to 1-4 cents gain, with Dec. $1.03 to $1.03 1-8 and May $1.08 1-4 to $1.08 3-8.

The Bricklaying Trade

The shortage of mechanics in this trade is now about 33%. The government report for 1920 shows there were 19% fewer bricklayers working at that trade in 1920 than there were in 1918. Bricklaying is one of the most healthy and best paying of building trades and the opportunities for employment are excellent.

On January 1st, we will start a class, providing we get sufficient applications. Only those who want to learn that trade should send in their application as only a certain number of students will be taken in. Anyone over eighteen years of age is eligible. This trade will be taught in a practical way. You learn how to spread mortar, how to handle the trowel in different positions, how to lay brick to the line, how to lay corners and leads, pilasters, piers, arches, rowlock and bonded brick, sills of different falls, fireplaces and fancy bricklaying. When a student leaves school he will know how to handle any job. We teach mixing mortar in different colors and also instruct to take work from plans. The instructor is a practical bricklayer with many years of experience and is versed in everything a bricklayer should know. Bricklayers earn from $10.00 to $15.00 per day. If interested, send for further information.

MR. MARTIN IS PLEASED TO BIG AUDIENCE

Audience Which Fills Auditorium Enjoys Concert of Great Tenor

APPLAUSE IS WARM

Audience, Perhaps Unaccustomed to Operatic Singing, Appreciative to End

Ricardo Martin, the great American tenor, proved his rights to the laurels of the public last night at the Auditorium before an audience that filled all available seats and occupied a part of the stage. Many were turned away at the door because of lack of seating capacity.

Assisting the artist in his success last evening was Miss Ruth Hagen of Fargo, manager and director of the Dakota Conservatory of Music, who played his accompaniments on the piano.

Ricardo Martin's winning of his huge audience was gradual but by the close of the concert he had the house demanding encores repeatedly. With the conclusion of his first number, Sigurd's Love Song from "The Valkyrie" by Wagner, no doubt, was left in the mind of his auditors that they were listening to the powerful, clear and full voiced voice of a great artist but with the introduction of the group of French love songs they were convinced that he could interpret a sprightly love song with the same feeling and artistic finish which he gave to an operatic selection of the Wagnerian type. And by the time he reached his Italian selections into which he threw all his magnetic personality and his dramatic skill the vast crowd in which appeared a number of Bismarck musicians, he had completely won the hearts of his hearers.

Much of the charm of the personality of the singer was shown in his delightful introductions and explanations of some of his foreign selections. His simplicity was very pleasing. Aiding and enhancing the beauty of the singing of Mr. Martin were the intelligent and artistic piano accompaniments of Miss Hagen who showed herself to be a skilled musician.

The program was varied including a selection from German opera, a group of French love songs, a similar group of Italian love songs, some English songs, and selections from Italian opera. By many encores were the intelligent and artistic piano accompaniments of Miss Hagen ranging from "My Old Kentucky Home" to popular operatic selections. "The Sweetest Flower" was given as an encore to his first selection, and "Si Mes Vies Avient Des Ailes," by Hahn at the close of the group of charming French selections.

Love Songs With. In his last group, the Italian love songs, "Vieni Giorno," by Blachman, was undoubtedly one of the most beautiful of the entire evening's program as were "Sea Fever" by John Ireland, and "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak. Probably much of their charm lay in the fact that they gave the singer the opportunity to show his special skill in taking high tenor notes.

Ricardo Martin struck his stride and kept his audience with him clapping wildly for more encores at the conclusion of each selection. He showed himself as thoroughly at home in the Italian music, and his love for the beautiful lyric selections was shown by his sympathetic treatment of them. "My Old Kentucky Home," "Believe Me It's All These Endearing Young Charms" were given as encores.

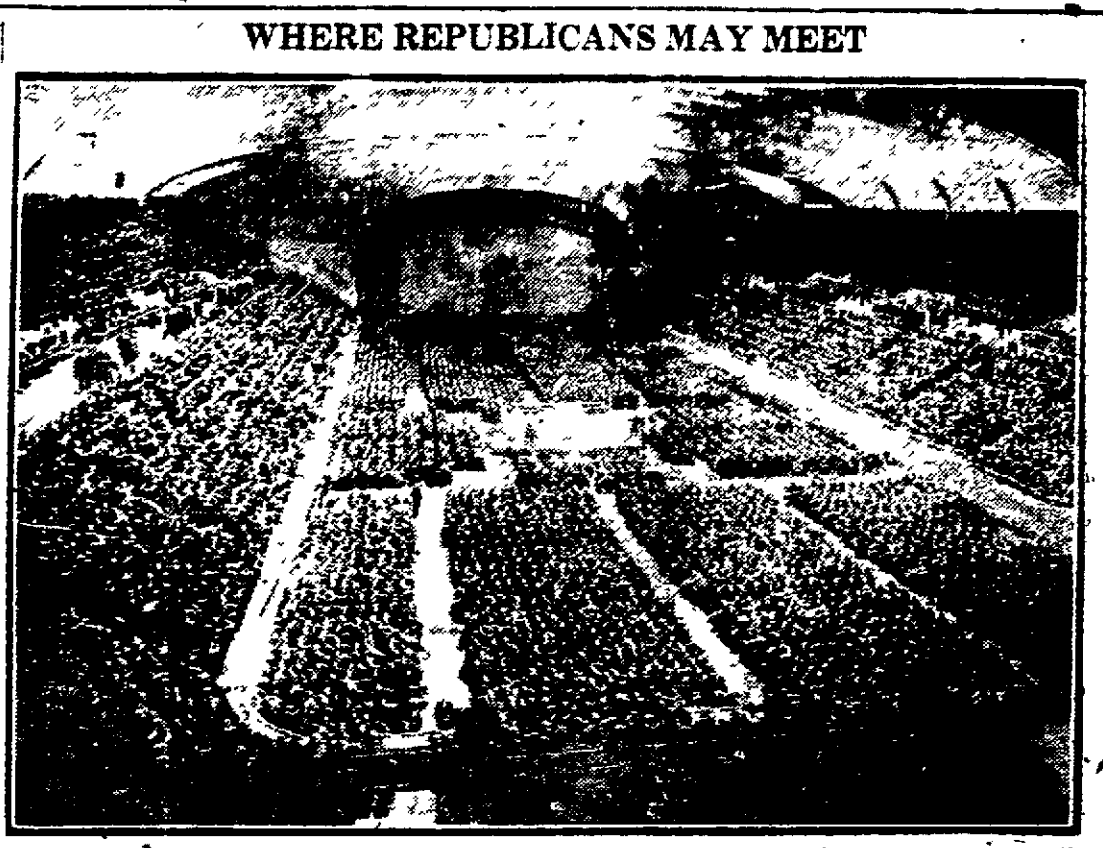

The English songs were filled with high notes and resonant chords into which the singer put the full force of his powerful and yet melodiously beautiful voice. "The Year's at the Spring" by Beach and "La donna e mobile," by Donizetti, were given as encores. The popular Italian number which appeared to be a favorite with everybody brought an uproar of applause and enthusiastic greetings.

His enunciation in Italian and French was excellent.

Displays Great Range. "Arioso" from "Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo, as a concluding number gave Mr. Martin a final chance to show his wonderful powers to hold sustained and high notes and to display his voice with its full advantage.

A selection from Giordano's opera "Sedara" was given as a final encore. There is a complete change for this evening's program and with from 100 to 200 seats available for tonight's concert another packed house should greet this artist.

Count Illya Tolstoy was among the auditors who heard Ricardo Martin sing last evening.

If the Republican National Committee decides to hold its 1924 presidential nominating convention in Cleveland, this is where the delegates will meet and choose their candidate. Photo shows an interior view of Cleveland's mammoth public auditorium. It has a seating capacity of 12,500 and facilities for accommodating a few thousand more. In addition, it has dozens of committee rooms where caucuses might be held.

ARMY PLANES TO ENCIRCLE GLOBE ON TRIP

Will Hop off Early in the Summer of 1924 at Washington and Head West

Dayton, O., Nov. 24.—Some time in the early summer of 1924, four or possibly six army airplanes will hop off from Bolling Field, Washington, and turn their noses to the west. Before their pilots again glimpse the nation's capital, they will have traveled 30,000 miles, crossed two oceans, and almost a score of countries and encircled the globe in the air for the first time in the world's history.

Such is the picture in the minds of officials at McCook Field here, who, under the direction of Army Air Service headquarters at Washington, are making plans for the first "round the world aerial cruise."

Tentatively, a route has been laid out and two air officers are going over it with the idea of making recommendations for necessary changes and completing other preparations. Lieut. C. E. Crumrine, of the local field, now is in Iceland heading eastward, while an officer of the Philippine aerial forces is working in the opposite direction. They will meet in Europe and after comparing data, return to their home stations.

No Regular Supplies. The flight, designed primarily to demonstrate the ability of planes to operate away from their regular supply bases during war times, will be made in comparatively short jumps. The distance between most of the stations will be 500 miles or less, the longest hop being approximately 850 miles.

Laid out at present, the route to be taken would not necessitate any sustained flight over open water. After crossing the country from the capital to Seattle, Washington, the squadron would head northward through Canada and after touching at Wrangal, Alaska, would hop to the Aleutian Islands, and then to the Japanese archipelago where several stops would be made. The mainland of Asia would be reached at Shanghai, China.

For the trip across the Atlantic, alternate routes are available. One itinerary calls for hops from Aberdeen, Scotland, to Farøe Island, to Iceland, to Greenland and to the mainland of North America at Frederiksdal-Hamilton, Inlet Canada. The other provides for the European take-off at Danmore Head, Ireland, and the more direct course to Newfoundland and thence to Quebec.

story as ever was filmed; there is mystery galore—mystery till the audience sits breathless—and then comes relief from the suspense in the form of the most delightful and laughter-provoking comedy from Rome Washington, a wonderful black-face character who finds himself torn between love of a dusky maid and fear of the peering eyes and stealthy figures that creep in and out are seen everywhere.

In this picture Mr. Griffith has departed entirely from the heavy and spectacular and gone in purely for audience entertainment in the way of love, laughter, mystery, thrills and thrills. There are no great mob scenes, no historical motif to be pictured, no mass of costumes.

THREE STATES ASKED TO ACT ON COAL FIGHT

Governor Nestos to Meet Preus and McMaster in Near Future on Subject

FIGHT A COMMON ONE

The governors of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota will meet in the very near future to determine by what method the three state governments can best assist in the fight against the increase in freight rates on North Dakota coal. Governor Nestos announced today when making known that fact that he had sent letters to Governor Preus of Minnesota and McMaster of South Dakota requesting that they meet with him, possibly in Fargo, at a date convenient to them. United opposition to the proposed increase in freight rates on North Dakota coal, which will result in a vast increase in the coal bill of the Northwest, will be the only subject discussed at the conference of the three governors unless Governors Preus and McMaster have some matters they wish to bring up, Governor Nestos declared.

"It is apparent," Governor Nestos stated today "that the three state governments must unite in protecting the interests of coal users. There seems every indication that the new lignite tariff was inspired by eastern coal interests for it appears evident that some drastic action must be taken to lower the docks at the head of the lakes and the large surplus of coal now on hand. Lignite has been making substantial inroads into the area heretofore served almost exclusively by the dock interests and the demand for lignite in Minnesota this fall indicates a record production for North Dakota mines. The eastern coal interests are finding it hard to compete with lignite in the lignite consuming area of the Northwest where a year's trial of this fuel has demonstrated its heat value, cleanliness and general utility for domestic and industrial purposes. Must Co-operate.

"The development of the North Dakota coal fields has resulted in other industrial developments made possible by cheap fuel. Indications point to further development of this nature which would soon result in less dependency on agriculture. It is with this thought in mind that many of our civic organizations are demanding action by the state and I believe the state governments of adjoining states will co-operate. As long as lignite is available as a satisfactory and economical alternative for both domestic and industrial use, the eastern coal interests cannot extract an exorbitant price but must meet this competition from North Dakota and keep their price as fair figure. The new rates, as sought by the railroads, would drive lignite out of the field, practically all our mines would have to close and the consumer would again be subject to domination by eastern coal interests. Such a condition should not be permitted if the state governments of Minnesota, South Dakota and North Dakota can prevent it.

"The explanation is offered by the railroads of the Northwest that this new lignite tariff results from the eastern coal interests' demand for connecting lines to cancel discriminating rates on lignite." We may find on complete investigation, in view of the large surplus of coal at the docks which must be moved to protect eastern coal interests, that there is collusion between the soft coal operators and railroads carrying coal over the long haul. If this be true, it may be that the federal government would be called into the matter for such combines to wipe out a competitive industry is certainly in violation of the federal anti-trust act.

Appeals to Railroads.

"I have already appealed to the railroads serving and served by North Dakota to withdraw this new tariff. It seems to me that the Northwest roads would do everything possible to speed the development of the territory through which they run, rather than to retard it. It seems certain that no thought at all has been given to the financial condition of the farmers and those dependent upon agriculture in the northwest when such a step is taken which will unquestionably add millions to the fuel bills of the people of these three states who are already staggering under heavy burdens. I hope the railroads can be made to see the viewpoint of the people of the Northwest and will withdraw the tariff before causing us the heavy expense of fighting it. But if they do not, we will fight this new tariff to the hilt. The interests of the coal consumers of the Northwest will be protected."

ASKS PROBE FOR VIOLATION OF U. S. LAWS

The Northwest's fight against huge increases in lignite coal rates which is declared would threaten North Dakota's growing industry permit operators to boost the price of eastern coal in the Northwest, took a new turn last night when Governor E. A. Nestos announced he had asked the attorney general to make an investigation to determine if the criminal provisions of the federal Sherman anti-trust act were being violated.

"I have asked the attorney general to make a thorough investigation of the forces behind the demand for an increase in lignite coal freight rates, to determine whether eastern railroads, operators and lake dock companies are in a conspiracy to increase lignite freight rates to a point where the industry will be destroyed," the governor said, "and further to determine whether there is evidence which may be placed before a federal grand jury for prosecution."

Repeated charges have been made that Northwestern railroads have been forced to demand an increase in lignite rates, by eastern "connecting" railroads, lake dock companies and operators. Governor Nestos said he had received many complaints of this nature and not desiring to act without good cause and requested the investigation be made.

Sunflower Seeds Valuable Crop in Western States

Washington, Nov. 24.—Sunflower seeds, 14,000,000 pounds of them, worth almost three-quarters of a million dollars. That is this year's crop of the three important producing states, Missouri, Illinois and California, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The yield this year is about 4,000,000 pounds more than last year. From four to six million pounds are imported annually. Principally from Holland, Argentina and Russia. "The poor man's peanuts" are what sunflower seeds are called in some sections. In New York City many Russians buy and roast them to eat. They are used principally, though, in poultry feed mixtures and for parrot feed.

Kansas, the "Sunflower State," produces practically no sunflower seeds for commercial use but in the three principal producing States they are considered a profitable crop as about 600 pounds per acre can be produced and sold for around $4 per 100 pounds.

Hot Weather Forms Ice in Coal Mine

During the summer, ice is mined from a coal pit located in an eastern state. Cold air seeping through earth fissures in winter cools the rock to a temperature far below freezing, but no ice forms because the atmosphere is too dry. At its depth the heat of summer cannot reach the vault. During warm months, the shaft becomes moist, and when coal was being dug there recently, it is said, the miners had to remove three or four carloads of ice every morning before they were able to get to their posts. As a result, the working was abandoned as a source of fuel, leaving it entirely free for use as a natural refrigerator.

Skis and snowshoes are used by fishermen and hunters on the islands of the North Sea to enable them to walk over the wet and slippery mud that covers the ground most of the year. Artist in Diving Suit Paints Sea's Depths

Fishlike birds, and castles of coral, have been painted by an artist who, with weighted palette and a diver's helmet, has walked through the tideless lagoons of the South Seas amid forests of seaweed. On the canvas, cliffs rise sheer, mountains seem to jut a vast distance and, in one scene, a horizon line which, in fact, a beach cutting across the water heavens. The painter's work under water is done on calfskin. Fish swim about the artist while he is at work to catch the bits of detached paint. Some of these sea denizens are dangerous, among them being the tiger shark, the octopus, and the ray, giant cousin of the stingray. He can sting, but his weapon is his weight—a ton and a half.

Mistletoe Is Pest in South, Festive Twig Elsewhere

While mistletoe generally is favored as a yuletide decoration, it is regarded as a pest in the Southwest, and for the past 12 years scientists have been studying a way to exterminate it. Government experts call the green sprig and its white berries an "infectious and destructive disease," because it finally kills the trees.

How to Keep Tools Clean and Bright

To keep tools clean and bright rub a little mercurial ointment over them, which will form a moisture-resisting coating. Mercurial ointment is also known as blue butter. It is somewhat poisonous, so should be handled carefully. Another good mixture to keep tools from rusting is made by taking six parts of lard and one part of resin. Heat these together slowly until the resin is melted. The mixture should be heated in the open air in case of fire, and benzine added in about the proportion of one part of benzine to half a pound of the mixture. When cool, the mixture can be rubbed lightly over the bright-steel articles. Tools thus treated will resist the corrosive action even of salt water.

Effective Method of Pulling Tree Stumps

In pulling stumps a team and one or two long chains will do the work effectively if arranged correctly. The greater the distance the stumps are apart, the easier they can be pulled. When two stumps are situated close together, loop the chain around each stump and hook it. Twist it by means of a lever to get it as tight as possible, and hook the team on as shown. In case there is no other stump to hitch to, dig down so as to expose the main root, providing a loop large enough

A COMMUNITY CHEST

With the establishment of a Social Service Bureau in the Red Cross Chapter of Burleigh county, the first step was taken to make the charity dollar as efficient in alleviation of misfortune as possible. The next step in contemplation is a Community Chest. This should be one of the major platforms in the program of the Association of Commerce. The proposition has been endorsed, but it was deemed inadvisable to attempt both the Community Chest drive and the Social Service Bureau at once. Now that the Bureau has been established and is functioning efficiently the next logical step and complement of this bureau is the Community Chest drive so that the people of Bismarck need not be disturbed by so many drives.

The Community Chest idea can function efficiently through a Community Chest Committee of the Association of Commerce. There would be no need of a new organization for administrative purposes. Of course it is essential that such a committee be truly representative of all charitable work and institutions which make a yearly appeal for funds.

Minot is now promoting a Community Chest for an annual budget of $15,480 to be distributed as follows: Boy Scouts, $4,500; Y. W. C. A., $4,000; Salvation Army, $2,300; United Charities, $500; Crittenton Home, $300; Catholic Orphanage, $300; N. D. Children's Home, $300; Travelers' Aid, $180; Advertising, printing, etc., $500; Emergency Fund, $1,240 and Shrinkage, $1,360.

Bismarck has had to date a variety of drives and judging from the difference in size between Minot and Bismarck some of the budgets have been set too high for this city because of the fact that the Capital usually responds so royally. Of course for all statewide charities, Bismarck should be assessed only its fair per capita amount as there are strictly local enterprises that must be cared for first.

Under the correct community budgeting plan those who contribute can advise to which beneficiary or group of beneficiaries his money should go.

Hardly a week goes by but what the call comes for teams to handle this or that civic affair. Businessmen are finding the constant calls burdensome. Their efforts could better be applied on many occasions to problems for civic development that press for a solution. If the drives were all conducted at once and the various enterprises given to understand that only one appeal a year would be made, then many productive hours would be available for matters of equal if not greater importance to civic development.

By all means a Community Chest drive in 1924.

CORN CONTEST

It has been suggested that the Association of Commerce father a corn contest this year for a silver cup in which each county can enter specimens of corn. This would serve as a great publicity affair and attract many people to the fact that North Dakota can grow as fine corn as Iowa, Illinois or Nebraska. Specimens can be obtained and a modest exhibit arranged for January or February.

This should be an affair in which the Commissioner of Agriculture and Immigration Commission would gladly cooperate.

SENSE OF VALUES

Jews seem to have more respect for genuine greatness, especially great mentality, than any other race, with the possible exception of the Chinese.

This is because the Jews and the Chinese have the "sense of values" highly developed. To distinguish the genuine from the counterfeit is instinctive with them.

The proverbial business ability of the Jews and the Chinese is largely due to this sense of values.

Americans are quick to recognize greatness of all kinds—of character, of ability, of mentality, of accomplishment. But there is a tendency among us to make such recognition short-lived. Then, characteristic of our nervous nation, we quickly forget and pass on to another instance of greatness—another thrill.

That's why so many people skyrocket to greatness, in our eyes, and then lapse into the forgotten after a brief flash-in-the-pan period of glory. The nobody of yesterday is the warmly acknowledged idol of today. The idol of today is forgotten tomorrow.

No lasting veneration, as these is with Jews and Chinese. One reason for this is that, as soon as any one becomes "great," our failures and jealous paranoias get out their hammers and begin destroying.

Nationally we are badly in need of an enduring sense of values. That is to say, a sense of values that would be more than temporary snap judgment—a sense of values with perspective, so that greatness could be judged in relation to a long period of time rather than as merely a new act of World Vaudeville.

Our deficient sense of values explains why we so often pick the wrong leaders, embark on long ventures that end disastrously, and why we have needless upward and downward rushes of prices.

DESCENDANT OF COLUMBUS

The only surviving male direct descendant of Christopher Columbus is Duke of Veragua. He's 52 and a bachelor. The end of the line, and a great line it was, even if Chris did have to furnish enough family fame for the nine generations that have followed him.

We always liked the story about the Irishman who, after touring the vast geography of America, said: "Discover America? How could he miss it?" That really was the case. Columbus appeals to the imagination because he braved the unknown even after his crew mutinied. He was the original Go Getter.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

This was the first riddle that the Riddle Lady in Riddle Land asked after the Twins arrived with Humpty Dumpty:

"Sing a song of sixpence, a pocket full of rye, The bird I wish to speak of was never in pie. She never with a straw nest, she knows not how to sing, And yet she is a fine bird and worthy of a king."

"This gallant bird, dear people, is worth a lot of money, but hasn't got a feather, you'll think that rather funny."

Yet she has wings—quite large ones—that spread out when she flies, And the longest tail you ever saw she pulls all through the skies."

"Have you guessed it, yet?" asked the Riddle Lady.

"No," cried all the people of Riddle Land, puckering their eyes. "Tell us some more."

So the Riddle Lady went on: "Sometimes she does a tail spin and often makes a dive, And flies with ease quite aside among the clouds like a bird alive. She soars right over mountains, and sails across the seas, And roars across the desert like a hundred thousand bees."

"Her master loves to ride her, like Mother Goose of old, And while, like the broomstick, does everything she's told. She kneels right down beside him and then like nimble Jack, Her master gives a run and jump and lands upon her back."

"Away she goes—a-roaring o'er the city, church and spire, She never stops to take a rest—she never seems to tire. Now I am sure you've seen this bird, you must have guessed her name. So really quite an easy word—it's just an—"Is it a poll-parrot?" asked one Riddle Lander.

"Oh, no!" laughed the Riddle Lady. "An eagle?" asked another.

"No—not an eagle, either." "I know—we know," called the Twins excitedly. "It's an airplane."

"Correct!" smiled the Riddle Lady, turning to Dick Red Cap, the Town Crier. "Give these children the first prize in the prize bag."

It was a pound of sugarplums, enough to make any pair of children quite ill—if they were greedy. But Nancy and Nick, being well-mannered, passed the sugarplums around and kept only one apiece for themselves.

"Quite a good beginning," said Humpty Dumpty graciously. "I hope that you will do as well tomorrow."

INVENTS SIGNAL DEVICE

Minot, Nov. 24.—A new signalling device for use on automobiles has been invented by Galusha A. Burgess, formerly of this city, now of Long Beach, Calif., and the Long Beach Telegram has written flattering stories about the invention, predicting that it ought to become a general accessory to automobiles in a short time.

The trade name of the device is "The Hand of Safety." Experts have declared the device to be the best of its kind on the market, and the Burgess company already has five patents on it with four others pending.

She comes home and tells me the stories so graphically and usually, at the end, I can truthfully say that my opinion of them is not changed at all. They are always talking of things I would blush to mention before a man. Only that I know dear Priscilla goes along and always looks at them in a spirit of pious pity. I would feel that I really did not understand the mind of the modern young woman.

The Tangle

LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT.

MY DEAR JOHN:—I had decided never to write you again unless some great crisis came into either your or my life. Because I think such a crisis has come into yours now is the reason I am writing you this letter.

You know that I do not go to moving picture shows. I have never allowed myself to be seen in one of these dens of iniquity. In fact, it is the only thing over which dear Priscilla Bradford and I disagree.

She tells me that they are not as bad as I have been taught to believe and insists upon going once or twice a week to see them. She says they take her out of herself. She comes home and tells me the stories so graphically and usually, at the end, I can truthfully say that my opinion of them is not changed at all. They are always talking of things I would blush to mention before a man. Only that I know dear Priscilla goes along and always looks at them in a spirit of pious pity. I think it shows just what might be said by those who do not know you as I.

My dear John, it would break my heart to have anyone of my friends see that picture who know that you have adopted a child under almost the same circumstances.

Dear Priscilla Bradford drew my attention to these facts and I determined then and there to once again ask you to get rid of this child in some way.

I am feeling much better since dear Priscilla came to live with me and I think I would be perfectly happy if she did not have this strange craze of going to picture shows.

However, I suppose that this foolishness will wear out as she becomes older and more mature.

I presume I ask more of her because in other things she has always seemed so sensible. So much so that sometimes I have almost believed what some of the harum-scarum girls of the town say of her, that she is over thirty-five.

Nine times she tells me that she is good for herself or any of her sex until she is thirty-five.

Dear Priscilla, however, tells me that she is only twenty-three and I must believe her for I know that everything she has told me about other things, specifically about Leslie, have been true.

By the way, she still insists that she saw Leslie in New York a short time ago.

Again let me ask you, my son, to insist that this child shall be put in some asylum or orphanage. If you cannot persuade Leslie any other way, have her see this picture and show her how the confidence of her baby's adoption could bring disgrace and scandal to you. If she loves you she will certainly see the necessity of putting the child out of her life.

Co-Eds Earn Way In Various Lines

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 24.—Six hundred men and women students at Northwestern university are working their way through school this year, according to figures prepared by the university. Fifty per cent of the men on the campus are employed in part time jobs and 20 per cent of this group depend entirely on their own earnings to pay their way through school.

The range of work being done by men students includes clerking and waiting on tables, house work, washing dishes, cleaning windows, serving as chauffeurs, night watchmen, motion picture operators, and switchboard operators.

The old fashioned college girl who regarded work outside the curriculum as "demeaning," is disappearing from the university and a new type is taking her place, said officials announcing that maid service in the homes of Evanston families is one of the more popular positions that many Northwestern girls have accepted. Taking care of little children during the afternoon hours is another job in which a number of

Teachers Here Thank Citizens

Bismarck women were so loyal to the city and so anxious to make the teachers' convention a success that they offered more rooms than were needed to take care of all of the visitors who could not be accommodated at hotels. The rooms committee of the Association of Commerce placed more than 500 school teachers in homes in the city.

Mrs. R. A. Truitt, chairman of the committee, said that many school teachers came back to the office and thanked the committee for placing them in such fine homes during the convention. Because of the tremendous rush of the visitors, the members of the committee assigned them to homes on the lists without any particular regard to where they were going, and expecting to use all rooms offered, but the excellent hotel accommodations of the city provided for so many that all of the rooms could not be filled.

Lawrence which portrayed Egyptian life and customs at the time of King Tutankhamen. The subject for the next meeting will be "The Story of Babylon and Assyria."

CHILD PLACING A DEPARTMENT OF SOCIETY

It may be said that placing children in homes involves many things which would hardly be that of the social person. It requires a sense of fitness and the greatest of patience.

In an interview with the Superintendent of the Humane Society for the Bismarck, the following story was told:

"Some six years ago the Society placed a ten-year old girl. Soon thereafter he was sent for to come and get the girl. And so it went until five times the changing occurred over a period of few years. Then the girl was taken into the superintendent's home and observed. It was either a case of committing to the State training school or giving one more trial. The latter was determined upon and effort made to place in a home particularly adapted to this girl. She is now on her second year in this home, a Soph in High School and plans on being a teacher some day. Child placing is one of the departments of the Society."

PARIS STYLES SUIT SLENDER WOMEN ONLY

New Dress Lines Put All But Slender Figures at a Disadvantage

TAILLEURS ARE LONGER

Buttons and Button Holes Are Being Used For Trimmings

Paris, Nov. 24.—The official winter style openings are now a thing of the past, and it would seem that the new dress lines put all but slim women at a disadvantage; a veritable cult of aliveness has been developed. While there is the greatest variety in the matter of detail, and one is allowed the circular or the plain, the embroidered and the unembroidered, the fundamental principle of the "straight line" remains supreme.

For street and travel wear the classic tailleur has the call, and so many women have remained faithful to it despite the changing times, that the great textile manufacturers of northern France are now creating fabrics designed especially for it.

The lasha, marokellaine and velours de Smyrne, particularly the latter, are the materials used by most of the Parisian dressmakers for tailleur and coats. The velours de Smyrne, coming in plaids and stripes with a soft velvety surface and all the sturdy qualities of wool, is the most popular fabric among the fashionable frequenters of the Bois de Boulogne and the Champs Elysees, soft dark-green being the color most in demand.

Simplicity is the keynote. Buttons or braid trimmings, or without adornment, these garments for morning and street wear all retain a snug, exact fit which is causing despair among women who admit they are somewhat plump.

As a rule the coats of the 1924 tailleur are longer than they have been for several seasons, in many cases about three-quarters or more. They also take the simple, straight line, and are often the wrap-around variety, extremely smart and very popular. Braided coats with far collar and cuffs, worn over simple, little straight line dresses are a variation.

A tailored dress of tabac brown velours de Smyrne, recently seen at Longchamp, has buttons for trimming and button holes of dull blue leather. A dull blue leather belt completes the rather striking ensemble.

Models made to knitted goods, incorporating into the tricot tailleur all the fashionable features of the cloth article, were also ushered in with the first chill of autumn. Some of these knitted suits have borders woven into them which give the same effect as embroidery.

But whether made of velvet, cloth or knitted goods, the tailor made suits of the 1923-1924 season, with their straight lines and snug fitting cut, conspire to make the coming months a period of despair for women who are plump.

Teachers Here Thank Citizens

Bismarck women were so loyal to the city and so anxious to make the teachers' convention a success that they offered more rooms than were needed to take care of all of the visitors who could not be accommodated at hotels. The rooms committee of the Association of Commerce placed more than 500 school teachers in homes in the city.

Mrs. R. A. Tracy, chairman of the committee, said that many school teachers came back to the office and thanked the committee for placing them in such fine homes during the convention. Because of the tremendous rush of the visitors, the members of the committee assigned them to homes on the lists without any particular regard to where they were going, and expecting to use all rooms offered, but the excellent hotel accommodations of the city provided for so many that all of the rooms could not be filled.

PARIS STYLES SUIT SLENDER WOMEN ONLY

New Dress Lines Put All But Slender Figures at a Dis-advantage

TAILLEURS ARE LONGER

Buttons and Button Holes Are Being Used For Trimmings

Paris, Nov. 24.—The official winter style openings are now a thing of the past, and it would seem that the new dress lines put all but slim women at a disadvantage; a veritable cult of slimmness has been developed. While there is the greatest variety in the matter of detail, and one is allowed to choose the circular or the plain, the embroidered and the unembroidered, the fundamental principle of the "straight line" remains supreme.

For street and travel wear the classic tailleur has the call, and so many women have remained faithful to it despite the changing times, that the great textile manufacturers of northern France are now creating fabrics designed especially for it.

The kasha, marokellaine and velours de Smyrne, particularly the latter, are the materials used by most of the Parisian dressmakers for tailleur and coats. The velours de Smyrne, coming in plaids and stripes, with a soft velvety surface and all the sturdy qualities of wool, is the most popular fabric among the fashionable frequenters of the Bois de Boulogne and the Champs Elysees, so dark-green being the color most in demand.

Simplicity is the keynote. Button or braid trimmings, or without adornment, these garments for morning and street wear all retain a snug, exact fit which is causing despair among women who admit they are somewhat plump. Slim women, on the other hand, have no fault to find. As a rule the coats of the 1924 tailleur are longer than they have been for several seasons, in many cases about three-quarters or more. They also take the simple, straight lines, and are often the wrap-around variety, extremely smart and very popular. Braided coats with fur collar and cuffs, worn over simple lithe straight line dresses are a variation.

A tailored dress of tabac brown velours de Smyrne, recently seen at Longchamp, has buttons for trimming and button holes of dull blue leather. A dull blue leather belt completes the rather striking ensemble.

Models made to knitted goods, incorporating into the tricot tailleur all the fashionable features of the cloth article, were also ushered in with the first chill of autumn. Some of these knitted suits have borders woven into them which give the same effect as embroidery.

But whether made of velvet, cloth or knitted goods, the tailor made suits of the 1923-1924 season, with their straight lines and snug fitting cut, conspire to make the coming months a period of despair for women who are plump.

AT THE MOVIES

Ingram Triumph To Be Pictured On Screen Here

Rex Ingram has scored again. This director seems satisfied with nothing less than perfection, not a mere technical perfection but that super-perfection which means artistic realism, finesse and distinction—and all of these he has attained in his latest production for Metro, "Where the Pavement Ends," which is presented at the Capitol Theatre Monday.

"Where the Pavement Ends" is different from anything Mr. Ingram has ever done, but it bears that stamp of real genius which characterized "The Four Horsemen," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Trifling Women." It is an extraordinary photoplay in every particular, in direction, acting, settings, story and photography.

It is a tale of how love came in to life of the daughter of a South Seas missionary. What a better setting for a tale of romance than far away islands of the Southern Pacific. Here is romance in its essence.

Beautiful Alice Terry portrays the part of the missionary's daughter with remarkable skill. Ramon Novarro plays opposite her with magnificent power and appeal. Edward Connelly, as the missionary, and Harry T. Morey, as Gregson, display rare ability.

THE ELTINGE

"Enemies of Women," Cosmopolitan's motion picture of the war novel by Vicente Blasco Ibañez, the Spanish novelist, is to be shown at the Eltinge Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, after unusually successful showings on roadway, in Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Boston and other cities.

Lionel Barrymore and Alma Rubens head a notable cast. Other players in the picture are Pedro de Cordoba, Gareth Hughes, Gladys Hulette, the late William H. Thompson, William Collier, Jr., and Ivan Linow.

"Enemies of Women," which has been rated by photoplay critics as one of the finest productions of the year, contains numerous scenes actually "shot" in Monte Carlo and Paris. The war scenes, especially the sinking of ships by submarines, are declared to be unequalled. Since the settings were directed by Joseph Urban, reports of their magnificence and lavishness may be accepted as accurate.

The action of the story takes place in Russia, Paris, the war front, and in Monte Carlo. Barrymore gives one of the finest characterizations of his illustrious acting career, it is said, as Prince Lubimoff, a selfish Russian noble. Alma Rubens is seen as the Duchess de Lille, a beautiful exotic, who lives only for men.

Yesterday custom ruled Women

A woman's life was entirely ordered for her. She had little or no choice in the matter of a husband; school-teaching was practically the only profession open to her; custom dictated that she be prim and stiff in dress and manner.

Even her methods of housekeeping were ruled by tradition. She washed on Monday, ironed on Tuesday, baked and mended on Wednesday, did a definite task each day, because her mother and grandmother had done so before her.

But now, what a different life women lead!

Today.....they are guided by common sense

If they choose, they become doctors and lawyers. They golf and play tennis; they dress for comfort. And in the realm of housekeeping, they answer only the dictates of convenience.

They no longer bake or clean on a specified day. And in the same way, they no longer regard Monday as washday. For the modern laundry, in addition to relieving women of their hardest household task, has brought them the advantage of five washdays.

Today, a great many women send the family bundle to this laundry on Thursday or Friday, many others on Tuesday or Wednesday, while some still use Monday as washday.

And as a result, all have the benefit not only of a new convenience but of prompter service, more efficient work, and a greater variety of services.

Today, give one of our family services a trial. Just phone—we'll send for your bundle.

Wedgewood Pottery

The genius of Joseph Wedgewood in the artistic designing of pottery, surpassed that of the master craftsmen of old, and has never been equaled since his day. For 200 years, famous artists have contributed their genius to designing, and the Wedgewood family still hold secret the art of clay-mixing, modeling, coloring, and finishing this world famous and elegant art ware.

A COMMUNITY CHEST
With the establishment of a Social Service Bureau in the Red Cross Chapter of Burleigh county, the first step was taken to make the charity dollar as efficient in alleviation of misfortune as possible. The next step in contemplation is a Community Chest. This should be one of the major platforms in the program of the Association of Commerce. The proposition has been endorsed, but it was deemed inadvisable to attempt both the Community Chest drive and the Social Service Bureau at once. Now that the Bureau has been established and is functioning efficiently the next logical step and complement of this bureau is the Community Chest drive so that the people of Bismarck need not be disturbed by so many drives.

The Community Chest idea can function efficiently through a Community Chest Committee of the Association of Commerce. There would be no need of a new organization for administrative purposes. Of course it is essential that such a committee be truly representative of all charitable work and institutions which make a yearly appeal for funds.
Minot is now promoting a Community Chest for an annual budget of $15,480 to be distributed as follows: Boy scouts, $4,500; Y. W. C. A., $4,000; Salvation Army, $2,300; United Charities, $500; Crittenton Home, $300; Catholic Orphanage, $300; N. D. Children's Home, $300; Travelers' Aid, $180; Advertising, printing, etc., $500; Emergency Fund, $1,240 and Shrinkage, $1,360.

Bismarck has had to date a variety of drives and judging from the difference in size between Minot and Bismarck some of the budgets have been set too high for this city because of the fact that the Capital usually responds so royally. Of course for all statewide charities, Bismarck should be assessed only its fair per capita amount as there are strictly local enterprise that must be cared for first.

Under the correct community budgeting plan those who contribute can advise to which beneficiary or group of beneficiaries his money should go.
Hardly a week goes by but what the call comes for teams to handle this or that civic affair. Businessmen are finding the constant calls burdensome. Their efforts could better be applied on many occasions to problems for civic development that press for a solution. If the drives were all conducted at once and the various enterprises given to understand that only one appeal a year would be made, then many productive hours would be available for matters of equal if not greater importance to civic development.

By all means a Community Chest drive in 1924.

CORN CONTEST
It has been suggested that the Association of Commerce father a corn contest this year for a silver cup in which each county can enter specimens of corn. This would serve as a great publicity affair and attract many people to the fact that North Dakota can grow as fine corn as Iowa, Illinois or Nebraska. Specimens can be obtained and a modest exhibit arranged for January or February.

This should be an affair in which the Commissioner of Agriculture and Immigration Commission would gladly cooperate.

SENSE OF VALUES
Jews seem to have more respect for genuine greatness, especially great mentality, than any other race, with the possible exception of the Chinese.
This is because the Jews and the Chinese have the "sense of values" highly developed. To distinguish the genuine from the counterfeit is instinctive with them.
The proverbial business ability of the Jews and the Chinese is largely due to this sense of values.

Americans are quick to recognize greatness of all kinds—of character, of ability, of mentality, of accomplishment. But there is a tendency among us to make such recognition short-lived. Then, characteristic of our nervous nation, we quickly forget and pass on to another instance of greatness—another thrill.

That's why so many people skyrocket to greatness, in our eyes, and then lapse into the forgotten after a brief flash-in-the-pan period of glory. The nobody of yesterday is the warmly acknowledged idol of today. The idol of today is forgotten tomorrow.

No lasting veneration, as these is with Jews and Chinese. One reason for this is that, as soon as any one becomes "great," our failures and jealous paranoids get out their hammers and begin destroying.

Nationally we are badly in need of an enduring sense of values. That is to say, a sense of values that would be more than temporary snap judgment—a sense of values with perspective, so that greatness could be judged in relation to a long period of time rather than as merely a new act of World Vaudeville.

Our deficient sense of values explains why we so often pick the wrong leaders, embark on long ventures that end disastrously, and why we have needless upward and downward rushes of prices.

DESCENDANT OF COLUMBUS
The only surviving male direct descendant of Christopher Columbus is Duke of Veragua. He's 52 and a bachelor. The end of the line, and a great line it was, even if Chris did have to furnish enough family fame for the nine generations that have followed him.
We always liked the story about the Irishman who, after touring the vast geography of America, said: "Discover America? How could he miss it?" That really was the case. Columbus appeals to the imagination because he braved the unknown seas after his crew mutinied.
He was the original Go-Getter.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Roberts Barton
This was the first riddle that the Riddle Lady in Riddle Land asked after the Twins arrived with Humpty Dumpty:
"Sing a song of sixpence, a pocket full of rye,
The bird I wish to speak of was never in a pie,
She never built a straw nest, she knows not how to sing,
And yet she is a fine bird and worthy of a king.
This gallant bird, dear people, is worth a lot of money,
But hasn't got a feather, you'll think that rather funny;
Yet she has wings—quite large ones—that spread out wide when she flies,
And the longest tail you ever saw she pulls all through the skies.
"Have you guessed it, yet?" asked the Riddle Lady.
"No," cried all the people of Riddle Land, puckering their eyes.
"Tell us some more."
"So the Riddle Lady went on: "Sometimes she does a tail spin and often makes a dive,
And flies with ease quite upside down like nothing else alive.
She soars right over mountains, and sails across the seas,
And roars across the desert like a hundred thousand bees.
"Her master loves to ride her, like Xerxes of old,
And a bridle, like the broomstick, does everything she's told.
She kneels right down beside him and then like nimble Jack,
Her master gives a run and jump and lands upon her back.
"Away she goes a-roaring over the city, church and spire,
She never stops to take a rest—she never seems to tire.
Now I am sure you've seen this bird, you must have guessed her name."
It's really quite an easy word—it's

The King-Pin of All the White Elephants
"Is it a poll-parrot?" asked one Riddle Lander.
"Oh, no!" laughed the Riddle Lady.
"An eagle?" asked another.
"No—not an eagle, either."
"I know—we know," called the Twins excitedly. "It's an airplane."
"Correct!" smiled the Riddle Lady, turning to Dick Red Cap, the Town Crier. "Give these children the first prize in the prize bag."
It was a pound of sugarplums. "I was a pound of sugarplums, enough to make any pair of children quite ill—if they were greedy." But Nancy and Nick, being well-mannered, passed the sugarplums around and kept only one apiece for themselves.
"Quite a good beginning," said Humpty Dumpty graciously. "I hope you will do as well tomorrow."

The trade name of the device is "The Hand of Safety." Experts have declared the device to be the best of its kind on the market, and the Burgess company already has five patents on it with four others pending.

The Tangle
LETTER FROM MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT.
MY DEAR JOHN:
I had decided never to write you again unless some great crisis came and I was forced to do so. Because I think such a crisis has come into your life now is the reason I am writing you this letter.
You know that I do not go to moving picture shows. I have never allowed myself to be seen in one of these dens of iniquity. In fact, it is the only thing over which dear Priscilla Bradford and I disagree.
She tells me that they are not as bad as I have been taught to believe and insists upon going once or twice a week to see them. She says they take her out of herself. She comes home and tells me the stories most graphically and usually, at the end, I can truthfully say that my opinion of them is not changed at all. They are always talking of things I would blush to mention before man. Only that I know dear Priscilla goes along and always looks at them in a spirit of pious pity. I would feel that I really did not understand the mind of the modern young woman.
The last picture which she saw has further confirmed me in this decision although it seems to me that if you should go and see it you would be convinced of what a terrible thing you have done in adopting a child that you know nothing about and giving it your honorable name.
I believe this picture is called "Tramping His Heels" which in itself shows that those who make pictures believe in the sinful games that are played with cards. The story is all about a man who foists his illegitimate child on his wife, and while I know that this would never be done by anyone of my family, yet

I think it shows just what might be said by those who do not know you as I.
My dear John, I would break my heart to have anyone of my friends see that picture who know that you have adopted a child under almost the same circumstances.
Dear Priscilla Bradford drew my attention to these facts and I determined then and there to once again ask you to get rid of this child in some way.
I am feeling much better since dear Priscilla came to live with me and I think I would be perfectly happy if she did not have this strange cause of going to picture shows.
However, I suppose that this foolishness will wear out as she becomes older and more mature.
I believe I am more or less becoming in other things she has always seemed so sensible. So much so that sometimes I have almost believed what some of the harum-scarum girls of the town say for her, that she is over thirty-five. For it is a theory of mine that no girl really knows what is good for herself or any other sex until she is thirty-five.
Dear Priscilla, however, tells me that she is only twenty-three and I must believe her for I know that everything she has told me about other things, specifically about Leslie, have been true.
By the way, she still insists that she saw Leslie in New York a short time ago.
Again let me ask you, my son, to insist that this child shall be put in some asylum or orphanage. If you cannot persuade Leslie, any other way, have her see this picture and show her how the consequences of her baby's adoption could bring disgrace and scandal to you. If she loves you she will certainly see the necessity of putting the child out of her life.
Affectionately,

REFINED HERE TODAY
Clare Jewett, in love with the Reverend Daniel Gilchrist, married Jerry Goodkind for his money. Daniel is dismissed from the fashionable Church of the Nativity in New York because of his radical sermon, "Overcoat Hall," a refutation by Gilchrist. George Goodkind, Jerry's unemployed, is called by Gilchrist. Jerry calls and orders Daniel to cease seeing Clare, who frequently visits the hall to help Gilchrist. Pearl Henning comes in and warns Daniel that her husband is out to "get" him. Clare comes to tell that she has left Jerry. Daniel sends her back home and she returns to her husband.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"All you wish, Mrs. Gilchrist," she asked, alarmed, "for the 'just tired,' he said, not moving. 'Maybe you ain't believin' hard enough,' she said naively. He looked up now. It was what he had needed. He smiled at her and straightened. 'It's most time for the meeting,' she added.
Grubby came back now with a tray loaded high with sandwiches. In his trail came several others, for the meeting was Mrs. Mulligan, swaying a bit with liquor and glad to find a warm place to enjoy her semi-sober state. There were Mr. and Mrs. Henchley, he a middle-aged locksmith, not without reserve, and she towering above him formidably.
"Good evening, Mrs. Mulligan," said Mary Margaret pleasantly.
"It is not," the red-faced woman retorted, "the evening is better for the people that live on labor and he came to the mimes while he was on strike and ran away with my wife."
"It wasn't him," protested Pearl. "She says that 'cabbage' she's stuck on him."
"Well, you're workin' for him, ain't you?"
"Your wife's working in a store—uptown," said Gilchrist. The remark was received with jeers.
"My wife's workin' Sixth avenue," said Henning with a sneer for her shame and a touch of self-pity for his own. "She's walkin' the streets!"
"That's a lie," shouted Daniel. "I heard from a pal she picked up last night."
Gilchrist turned to Pearl expecting to see her head held high in scorn and refutation. Instead he saw it bowed.
"Pearl!" he said, loath to believe. "She's a lie!"
She was sobbing now, softly.
"No," she said, brokenly. "It's true."
The contemptuous rumble of vindictive came from the tearing, swaying mob and damned her weeping.
CHAPTER XXI
The Sign
The bowed head took the taunts and jeers for only a moment. Then Pearl Henning, with a hard-ness that was new to her but as old to her kind as self-defense in old, rose and turned jointly on Gilchrist as well as the mob in defiance.
"Yes, it's true," she repeated, bitterly. "I heard from a pal she picked up last night."
Gilchrist said, "I tried to have someone—like you told me—and I had a job—but when the other girls got wise—they ain't no better than I am."
She gave way before his calm, steady gaze.
"Any way," she said, haltingly, "I lied. I am walkin' the streets. I ain't no good. I ain't fit to live. I ain't fit to sink at his feet. He caught her up.
"Pearl!" he said, softly.
She pulled to free herself.
"For Christ's sake, ain't you done with me now?" she said, half protest, half surprise.
"For Christ's sake," said Gilchrist, reverently. "No." He put his arm about her shoulder.
Joe Henning stirred restlessly one uneasily.
"It's a fake," he growled. "Ain't you follow on? He got every rotten woman in the neighborhood workin' for him. Your wife ain't safe. Your kids ain't safe. Ask Tony Malduca." He turned to a smug Italian in the group.
"Didn't he say that kid in here—didn't he say that kid in here will?"
"That's what he done," said Malduca, sullenly. The mob stirred again, the rumble of half-baked suggestions of violence. Henning heard them with welcome.

Co-Eds Earn Way In Various Lines
Evanston, Ill., Nov. 24.—Six hundred men and women students at Northwestern university are working their way through school this year, according to figures prepared by a recently official fifty per cent of the men on the campus are employed in part time jobs and 20 per cent of this group depend entirely on their own earnings to pay their way through school.
The range of work being done by men students includes clerking and waiting on tables, house work, washing dishes, cleaning windows, serving as chauffeurs, night watchmen, mormen, tutors, hotel clerks and switchboard operators.
The old-fashioned college girl who regarded work outside the curriculum as "demerit," is disappearing from the university, and a new type is taking her place, said officials announcing that maid service in the homes of Evanston families is one of the more popular positions that many Northwestern girls have accepted. Taking care of little children during the afternoon hours is another job in which a number of girls are engaged. Secretarial work also has a strong bid for favor among the young women students and not a few are working in the capacity of clerks and stenographers in Evanston business offices.

FARGO HIGH'S TEAM EASILY IS SUPERIOR

Defeats Minot High School's Scrappy Eleven Here For
Title, 26 to 0

VICTORY IS EARNED

Fargo Team Wins Praise For Machine-Like Manner in Which it Plays

There were about 2,500 people at the championship high school football game here Friday afternoon, Coach Edgar Houser of the Bismarck club said after checking the returns today. High school students were admitted for half price, but the receipts were about $1,500. It is expected that the local high school athletic association will net $300 to $400 on the game, the exact amount not being known at this time.

Fargo High School's superior football machine, was again crowned State Champions, when Minot, budding forth with her first championship hope in eight years, went down to a 26-0 defeat, in the state titular match, staged on the local field yesterday afternoon.

Excellent generalship, coupled with speed, used to the right advantage, accounted for the one-sided victory for the Fargo eleven. The Magic City eleven fought gamely to the end, but their efforts were for naught, against the driving attack of the Champions.

Two touchdowns in the first quarter, put the game on ice for Fargo. Fisher grabbed a long pass, and ran twenty yards for the first counter, and smashing line bucks accounted for the second touchdown. Minot, lamed in the second and third quarters, and held the Midgets scoreless, but the last quarter added two more tallies, and brought Fargo's total to twenty-six.

Capt. Fisher of Fargo, easily stood out as the most valuable man on either team. His uncanny ability on the receiving end of the aerial attack, and a fine display of defensive play, merits him an all-state position. Rusch, Fargo's red-headed quarterback, reeled off many gains, and directed his team effectively. Dunnell was the strongest backfield man for Minot while Kelly and Amster, showed up well in the line.

The Minot team was loyally supported by fans, who came to Bismarck several hundred strong with a band. There were many Fargo rooters here also.

The day was fine for football. It proved fortunate that the game was played in Bismarck, as there was reported to be two to three inches of snow on the ground in Fargo and it was several degrees colder in Minot yesterday than in Bismarck. The crowd of 2,500 here, and the fact that the game was a financial success, was especially pleasing to the local athletic management. Bismarck citizens loyally supported the game, and Minot's great crowd of rooters and people from Fargo, Mandan, teachers and people from many other towns swelled the crowd. The attendance might have been larger had not some people in nearby towns been in doubt as to whether the game would have been played here.

HORNSBY MAY NOT BE SOLD

St. Louis, Nov. 24.—Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, today denied that Rogers Hornsby, star slugger, would be traded to the Chicago Nationals for Hack Miller, Marty Callaghan, Charles Hollocher, Virgil Cheeves and Ernie Osborne and about $100,000 in cash.

Mr. Breadon added that every indication was that it was impossible to get a satisfactory trade involving Hornsby and consequently it was likely that the star would be back at second base for the Cardinals next season.

KRAUSE WINS
Ellendale, N. D., Nov. 24.—Bat Krause of Fargo gave Bennie Farness of Montevideo, Minn., an awful beating in every round of their 20th round encounter, here last night. Krause closed one of Farness' eyes early in the fight and it hampered Farness' work.

Krause's work was so pleasing to the fans that the promoters will match Krause with some tougher opponent in the near future.

FRAZIER AT GAME
Boston, Nov. 24.—United States Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, who visited Governor Cox at the state house yesterday, will attend the Harvard-Yale football game today. The senator, in his younger days, was a football star, having been captain of the University of North Dakota eleven for two years.

HALL, LEROY DRAW
Fargo, Nov. 24.—Roscoe Hall of Des Moines and Russle LeRoy of Fargo, lightweights, fought ten slashing rounds to a draw at the auditorium last evening before a small but appreciative crowd.

Facing what appears to be inevitable defeat, Harvard will enter the Yale game today, last of the season's Big Three struggles, with at least a resolute will. scrap and there are as many opinions to the outcome as are possible but after thinking the whole thing over, a draw is the best that can be done for either boy.

KELLEY BUYS INTO MILLERS

St. Paul, Nov. 24.—Formal announcement that he had purchased a "substantial" interest in the Minneapolis Baseball club of the American Association was made here today by Michael J. Kelley, for several years manager of the St. Paul club of the same league.

The amount involved in the transaction was not made public. The purchase was made from the twenty-six stockholders of the Minneapolis club, several of whom including George K. Belden, president, and E. J. Westlake, secretary, will retain shares of stock.

Reports of the change by Kelley came as a surprise to St. Paul fans. For 15 years over three distinct periods Kelley had been with the Saints and he had won five pennants.

John W. Norton, president of the St. Paul club, was surprised to learn of the deal. Up to noon today, he said, he had not been officially advised by Kelley of the transaction and until he does he will withhold formal comment.

"I was of the opinion that Kelley and I had agreed on terms for him to manage St. Paul next year," said Norton. He would not indicate at this time what steps would be taken to select his successor.

Kelley will direct the Millers from the bench next season.

PETROLLE GETS WIN
OVER IRISH KENNEDY
Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 24.—Billy Petrolle of Jamestown won the decision over Irish Kennedy of St. Paul in their ten round bout, here last night. Petrolle did all the leading and kept the St. Paul lad on the defensive.

Fritz Kawalski of Fargo knocked out Joe Miske in the seventh round of their semi-windup.

WANTS SUPPLY OF NITRATE

President Coolidge Interests Himself in Problem

Washington, Nov. 24.—President Coolidge feels that Muscle Shoals might properly be operated by the government at a loss or disposed of to private interests at a sacrifice, in order that the United States may be assured of a war time supply of nitrate, and a peace time supply of cheap fertilizer.

White House officials in presenting this statement of the chief executive's view, today asserted that the president and Representative Madden, Illinois, were working in harmony in the matter of legislation which would bring about construction of a duplicate of the Gorgas stream power plant recently sold to the Alabama Power Company.

The statement did not reveal whether Mr. Coolidge preferred government or private operation of the Muscle Shoals properties, but it represented the president as feeling that it was a matter of greatest importance for the United States to obtain a sure supply nitrates and that some financial allowance should be made in the case of either type of operation for extensive experimentation.

BANK CONDITIONS.
New York, Nov. 24.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week showed an excess in reserve of $10,108,530. This is a decrease in reserve of $15,628,960.

CRACK CORNELL GUARD

J. H. BERMAN

If Cornell wins over Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day, and it looks like a certainty, Doble's great team will be ranked among the first three. While some of the experts insist Cornell has played a hand-picked schedule, it is stretching the point, as games with Colgate, Dartmouth and Penn cannot be considered as soft. A good defense has played a leading role in the success of the Ithacans. The work of Guard Berman in holding the opposition is worthy of more than passing mention. He looms up as one of the best forwards in eastern football.

No Tombstones for Kitty

By CLARA DELAFIELD

Honest Mike Sullivan and his elderly frau lived in a quaint old-fashioned little cottage in an obscure nook of the great city. They had bought it with their savings. They did not care anything about its being quaint; what they liked about it was that it was homelike. Retired people with a little income, they chatted with their neighbors in equal circumstances and had the time of their lives for several months. The cottage had been built a century before, and the garret was all choked up with trash, which some day Mrs. Sullivan was going to clear away. But she delayed in the satisfaction of practically sitting back and enjoying comfort at last.

Then came the dreadful persecution. A committee of leading citizens called at the cottage one day. But let Kitty Sullivan tell her own story.

"So far as I understand, Mike," she said, "there was a poet fellow named Grudge once lived here, and they want to buy the cottage and make a museum of it."

"Not in my time," said Mike.

"Not in mine," echoed Kitty.

They thought no more of it, but meanwhile the knowledge had been spreading through the town. There was a sort of temporary craze about the poet Grudge, who had lived there in obscurity so long before. A manuscript of his changed hands for a thousand dollars. New editions of his books were being brought out. It would all have been very surprising and gratifying to Grudge, had he been alive, and perhaps his ironical shade did watch from beyond the Styx and wonder a little.

Soon visitors began coming up to the cottage all day long, begging to see it. At first Kitty used to show them over. But she soon got tired of that. At last, when they refused to understand that it was a private home, she took to shutting the door in their faces.

The climax came one day when the committee called again. But this time anticipating things a little, Kitty had had her cleaning-up day at last. She went up into the garret and gathered together all the miscellaneous debris, bits of furniture, papers, old books, that had been lying there for countless years, and carried it all out to the back yard.

There a fire was set by Kitty and Mike, and in a short time the rubbish was consumed to cinders.

"Thank hivin now I'll have a clean house," said Kitty.

"'Tis a proud wumman ye are," said Mike, looking at her in admiration over the bowl of his pipe. "Tis a happy wumman I'd be if them visitors wad let the house alone," said Kitty. "Ye'd think they'd all gone mad with this talk of Grudge or Fudge or whatever his name might be."

"Spake no evil of the dead, wumman," said her husband. "Sure, I'm not blaming the poor lad at all," said Kitty. "Maybe if they'd treated him decent when he was alive they wouldn't feel their consciences tickling them so now."

Now we come back to the climax, the day when the committee appeared again at the door. Kitty answered their knock. Her face darkened when she saw them.

"Now, it's no use your coming here to see the rooms Grudge or Fudge lived in or died in—" she began.

"Madam, you mistake me," said the spokesman with dignity, displaying a large, flat slab of stone with something engraved on it. "Mercy me, it is a tombstone ye'd be putting up to Grudge?" cried Kitty.

"No, madam, this is a memorial tablet to state that Mr. Grudge, the famous poet, once lived in this house," replied the spokesman suavely. "It will look neat and ornamental if it is affixed just between those two lower windows."

"So it's fixing tombstones between my windows ye'd be doing now, is it?" screamed Kitty. "Now git this through your dome. 'Tis Sullivan lives here, not Grudge. Last Friday I went up to the attic and I come upon all of Grudge's papers and poetry and books and such like, and I burned 'em in the back yard, and that's the end of Grudge. So you can just take Grudge's tombstone out of here."

With that she slammed the door.

The Searchlight

The mariner stands on the bridge of his ship, peering into the dark.
Suddenly the flaming finger of a searchlight flashes out. The surrounding waters become bright as
day. The course is clear.

Advertising is analogous to the searchlight. It throws its broad beams across the pages of this paper, pointing out with shining clearness
just where to go for what you want,
and how much you will have to pay.

In the advertising columns you can find the wares of every progres-

no wasted time, no needless foot-

Manteo, N. C., Nov. 24.—A movement has been started by a group of citizens to permanently mark historical spots, and one of the places to be designated by a monument, if the plans materialize, is the birthplace of Virginia Dare, the first white child born on American soil. The spot is on Roanoke Island, often referred to as "the cradle of the English race in America." There is some doubt as to the exact spot where Virginia Dare was born, but it is believed to be near Fort Raleigh, about three miles north of Manteo.

Mounds of earth forming the sides of a pentagon, at each angle of which is a stone post protruding about a foot from the ground, show the location of the old fort. In the center of the fort there is now an unpretentious stone marker on which is inscribed some of the historical records of the place. Unscrupulous re-

FARGO HIGH'S TEAM EASILY IS SUPERIOR

Defeats Minot High School's Scrappy Eleven Here For Title, 26 to 0

VICTORY IS EARNED

Fargo Team Wins Praise For Machine-Like Manner in Which it Plays

There were about 2,500 people at the championship high school football game here Friday afternoon. Coach Edgar Houser of the Bismarck club said after checking the returns today. High school students were admitted for half price, but the receipts were about $1,500. It is expected that the local high school athletic association will net $300 to $400 on the game, the exact amount not being known at this time.

Fargo High School's superior football machine, was again crowned State Champions, when Minot, heading forth with the first championship hope in eight years, went down to a 26-0 defeat, in the state titular match, staged on the local field yesterday afternoon.

Excellent generalship, coupled with speed, used to the right advantage, accounted for the one-sided victory for the Fargo eleven. The Magic City eleven fought gamely to the end, but their efforts were for naught, against the driving attack of the Champions.

Two touchdowns in the first quarter, put the game on ice for Fargo. Fisher grabbed a long pass, and ran twenty yards for the first counter, and smashing line bucks accounted for the second touchdown. Minot braced in the second and third quarters, and held the Minutemen scoreless, but the last quarter added two more tallies, and brought Fargo's total to twenty-six.

Capt. Fisher of Fargo, easily stood out as the most valuable man on either team. His uncanny ability on the receiving end of the aerial attack, and a fine display of defensive play, merits him an all-state position. Busch, Fargo's red-headed quarterback, reeled off many gains, and directed his team effectively. Dunnell was the strongest backfield man for Minot while Kelly and Ammer, showed up well in the line.

The Minot team was loyally supported by fans, who came to Bismarck several hundred strong with a band. There were many Fargo rooters here also, for football. It proved fortunate that the game was played in Bismarck, as there was reported to be two to three inches of snow on the ground in Fargo and it was several degrees colder in Minot yesterday than in Bismarck. The crowd of 2,500 here, and the fact that the game was a financial success, was especially pleasing to the local athletic management. Bismarck citizens loyally supported the game, and Minot's great crowd of rooters and people from Fargo, Minot, teachers and people from many other towns swelled the crowd. The attendance might have been larger had not some people in nearby towns been in doubt as to whether the game would have been played here.

HORNSBY MAY NOT BE SOLD

St. Louis, Nov. 24.—Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Nationals, today denied that Rogers Hornsby, star slugger, would be traded to the Chicago Nationals for Hack Miller, Marty Chulachan, Charles Hollocher, Virgil Cheeves and Ernie Osborne and about $100,000 in cash.

Mr. Breadon added that every indication was that it was impossible to get a satisfactory trade involving Hornsby and consequently it was likely that the star would be back at second base for the Cardinals next season.

KRAUSE WINS Ellendale, N. D., Nov. 24.—Bat Krause of Fargo gave Bennie Farness of Montevideo, Minn., an awful-lacing in every round of their ten round encounter here last night. Krause closed one of Farness' eyes early in the fight and it hampered Farness' work.

Krause's work was so pleasing to the fans that the promoters will match Krause with some tougher opponent in the near future.

HEFTY HARVARD HOPES

Facing what appears to be inevitable defeat, Harvard will enter the Yale game today, last of the season's Big Three struggles, with at least a resolute will. Harvard hopes for great things from the athletes pictured above, Greenough, Eastman, Hubbard and Dunker.

scrap and there are as many opinions to the outcome as are possible but after thinking the whole thing over, a draw is the best that can be done for either boy.

KELLEY BUYS INTO MILLERS

St. Paul, Nov. 24.—Formal announcement that he had purchased a "substantial" interest in the Minneapolis Baseball club of the American Association was made here today by Michael J. Kelley, for several years manager of the St. Paul club of the same league.

The amount involved in the transaction was not made public. The purchase was made from the twenty-five stockholders of the Minneapolis club, several of whom including George K. Belden, president, and E. T. Westlake, secretary, will retain shares of stock.

Reports of the change by Kelley came as a surprise to St. Paul fans. For 15 years over three distinct periods Kelley had been with the Saints and he had won five pennants.

John W. Norton, president of the St. Paul club, was surprised to learn of the deal. Up to noon today, he said, he had not been officially advised by Kelley of the transaction and until he does he will withhold formal comment.

"It was of the opinion that Kelley and I had agreed on terms for him to manage St. Paul next year," said Norton. He would not indicate at this time what steps would be taken to select his successor.

Kelley will direct the Millers from the bench next season.

PETROLLE GETS WIN OVER IRISH KENNEDY

Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 24.—Billy Petrolle of Jamestown won the decision over Irish Kennedy of St. Paul in their ten round bout here last night. Petrolle did all the leading and kept the St. Paul lad on the defensive.

Fritz Kawalski of Fargo knocked out Joe Miske in the seventh round of their semi-windup.

No Tombstones for Kitty

By CLARA DELAFIELD

Honest Mike Sullivan and his elderly frau lived in a quaint old-fashioned little cottage in an obscure nook of the great city. They had bought it with their savings. They did not care anything about its being quaint; what they liked about it was that it was homelike.

Retired people with a little income, they chatted with their neighbors in equal circumstances and had the time of their lives for several months. The cottage had been built a century before, and the garret was all choked up with trash, which some day Mrs. Sullivan was going to clear away. But she delayed in the satisfaction of practically sitting back and enjoying comfort at last.

Then came the dreadful persecution. A committee of leading citizens called at the cottage one day. But let Kitty Sullivan tell her own story.

"So far as I understand, Mike," she said, "there was a poet fellow named Grudge once lived here, and they wants to buy the cottage and make a museum of it."

"Not in my time," said Mike. "Not in mine," echoed Kitty.

They thought no more of it, but meanwhile the knowledge had been spreading through the town. There was a sort of temporary craze about the poet Grudge, who had lived there in obscurity so long before. A manuscript of his changed hands for a thousand dollars. New editions of his books were being brought out. It would all have been very surprising and gratifying to Grudge, had he been alive, and perhaps his local shade did watch from beyond the Styx and wonder a little.

Soon visitors began coming up to the cottage all day long, begging to see it. At first Kitty used to show them over. But she soon got tired of that. At last, when they refused to understand that it was a private home, she took to shutting the door in their faces.

The climax came one day when the committee called again. But this is anticipating things a little. Kitty had had her cleaning-up day at last. She went up into the garret and gathered together all the miscellaneous debris, bits of furniture, papers, old books, that had been lying there for countless years, and carried it all out to the back yard.

There a fire was set by Kitty and Mike, and in a short time the rubbish was consumed to cinders.

"Thank him now I'll have a clean house," said Kitty.

"Tis a proud woman you are," said Mike, looking at her in admiration over the bowl of his pipe.

"Tis a happy woman, I'd be it if them visitors had let the house alone," said Kitty. "Ye'd think they'd all gone mad with this talk of Grudge or Fudge or whatever his name might be."

"Spake no evil of the dead, woman," said her husband.

"Sure, I'm not blaming the poor lad at all at all," said Kitty. "Maybe if they'd treated him decent when he was alive they wouldn't feel their consciences tickling them so now."

Now we come back to the climax, the day when the committee appeared again at the door. Kitty answered their knock. Her face darkened when she saw them.

"Now, it's no use your coming here to see the rooms Grudge or Fudge lived in or died in—" she began.

"Madam, you mistake me," said the spokesman with dignity, displaying a large, flat slab of stone with something engraved on it.

"Mercy me, it is a tombstone ye'd be putting up to Grudge?" cried Kitty.

"No, madam, this is a memorial tablet to state that Mr. Grudge, the famous poet, once lived in this house," replied the spokesman suavely. "It will look neat and ornamental if it is affixed just between those two lower windows."

"So it's fixing tombstones between my windows ye'd be doing now, is it?" screamed Kitty. "Now get this through your dome. Tis Sullivan lives here, not Grudge. Last Friday I went up to the attic and I come upon all of Grudge's papers and poetry and books and such like, and I burned 'em in the back yard. And that's the end of Grudge. So you can just take Grudge's tombstone out of here."

With that she slammed the door. (C. 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

WANTS SUPPLY OF NITRATE

President Coolidge Interests Himself in Problem

Washington, Nov. 24.—President Coolidge feels that Muscle Shoals might properly be operated by the government at a loss or disposed of to private interests at a sacrifice, in order that the United States may be assured of a war time supply of nitrate, and a peace time supply of cheap fertilizer.

White House officials in presenting this statement of the chief executive's view, today asserted that the president and Representative Madden, Illinois, were working in harmony in the matter of legislation which would bring about construction on the Warrior river in Alabama of a duplicate of the Gorgas stream power plant recently sold to the Alabama Power Company.

The statement did not reveal whether Mr. Coolidge preferred government or private operation of the Muscle Shoals properties, but it represented the president as feeling that it was a matter of greatest importance for the United States to obtain a sure supply of nitrates and that some financial allowance should be made in the case of either type of operation for extensive experimentation.

BANK CONDITIONS. New York, Nov. 24.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week showed an excess in reserve of $10,108,530. This is a decrease in reserve of $15,628,060.

CRACK CORNELL GUARD

J. H. BEREAN If Cornell wins over Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day, and it looks like a certainty, Debie's great team will be ranked among the first three. While some of the experts insist Cornell has played a hand-picked schedule, it is stretching the point, as games with Colgate, Dartmouth and Penn cannot be considered as soft. A good defense has played a leading role in the success of the Ithacans. The work of Guard Beraan is holding the opposition is worthy of more than passing mention. He looms up as one of the best forwards in eastern football.

GIRL'S STORY OF MURDER IS SHOWN FALSE

Said Man Was Guilty Because
She Was Tired of Questioning

Chicago, Nov. 24.—An alleged confession by Otto Malm, arrested for robbing a butcher shop, that he killed Edward Lehmann during a robbery several weeks ago at a knit goods factory has exonerated Walter Bucklman, held for the slaying and identified as the slayer by Ethel Beck, 19, his alleged accomplice.

Authorities had regarded the case against Bucklman as complete. Lehmann, accompanied by Albert Stenwedel, a night watchman, had surprised a man and a blonde woman attempting to enter the factory and in an exchange of shots Lehmann was fatally wounded. Ethel Beck, arrested as the blonde woman, declared after questioning that Bucklman had fired the shot.

Malm's confession names his wife as the blonde woman. H. Norine, arrested as a result of Malm's alleged confession for robbery, is said to have admitted driving the automobile in which Malm says he and his wife escaped from the scene of the shooting after his wife had been slightly wounded.

Confronted with Malm's statement the Beck girl admitted she had confessed falsely. She said she was tired of being questioned and admitted guilt to end the interrogation.

Capt. MacMillan said in his message that "news of the world was received" like an "evening paper" from two European wireless stations.

EGGS MUST BE FRESH IF SAID SO, IS RULING

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 24.—Strictly fresh eggs are not eggs which have been held in storage for six months, and what's more, they can't be sold as such in North Dakota! That's the warning issued to traffickers in eggs by R. O. Baird, state food commissioner, who calls attention to the North Dakota Egg law, which defines a fresh egg as one which has not been in cold storage for more than 30 days.

"Selling of cold storage eggs as 'strictly fresh eggs,' 'fresh eggs,' or even 'eggs' is illegal, according to this act," Mr. Baird declares. "The law specifies that a sign at least six inches square bearing the words 'cold storage' must be displayed over any eggs offered for sale which have been in cold storage more than 30 days."

This act also applies to eggs which have been preserved by pickling in brine, waterglass or lime water, or by any other process. In this case a placard must be displayed bearing the words "preserved."

Overland Champion Gives Free Rides

Week of November 22-29 Set
Aside by All Willys-Overland
Champion Dealers as National Champion Demonstration Week.

November 22-29 will be Champion Demonstration Week among Willys-Overland dealers, branches and distributors throughout the United States.

Willys-Overland, Inc., has set aside this period as a merchandising period when greatest stress would be laid upon this most versatile of all of its models, to mark the climax of the most successful year that Willys-Overland merchants have ever yet enjoyed.

For the first time since this new car was first announced early in October all of the 5,000 dealers throughout the land have now been furnished with sample cars of this type. Factory production has been speeded up to such a point where it is adjudged to be nearly adequate to the demand. For the first time President John N. Willys and General Sales Manager L. G. Peed consider the circumstances in their dealer organization to be ripe for a universal effort to acquaint the motor car buying public with the many uses of this unique model.

No car that Willys-Overland has ever introduced has met with the spontaneous and immediate acclaim that greeted the Champion. While radically novel and fresh, yet it proved to be the type of motor car that many have longed for and hoped for. It probably is the most divergently useful car ever brought out. Its front and rear seats can be easily and quickly adjusted to three different positions, permitting a tall driver to manipulate foot pedals without cramping of legs. By the same token a short driver can adjust the driver's seat so that he can easily reach the pedals. Rear seat can also be moved forward or back to accommodate the convenience of the passengers.

The car's most remarkable characteristic, however, is that both front and rear seats and upholstery can be entirely removed and made up into a luxurious bed right in the car, a feature that will prove invaluable to tourists and campers. With rear seat and upholstery removed fifty cubic feet of space for salesman's samples, suit cases, trunks and luggage, farm tools, produce and supplies, camp duffle and other equipment that it might be necessary to transport, all of which can easily be loaded into this compartment.

The entire week will be devoted by the Willys-Overland dealer organization to a thorough display and demonstration of this car's many uses.
